25 UNUSUAL CHOICESDISCRIMINATION NEED OF TARIFF

Empire Preferential System Requires Delicate Balance Between Home and Empire

By R. K. Sandwell, F.R.S.C.

Ottawa, July 21.—The one really difficult question that arises in connection with Imperial preference is the question of what products we should import from the Empire for ourselves in Canada and what products we should definitely decide to accept from other parts of the Empire in payment for our own exports. A scientifically designed tariff will seldom aim at merely dividing the market for a given class of articles between Canadian producers and external producers.

The entire Canadian market is so small in comparison with the capacity of the modern efficient industrial unit that it can seldom be advisable to divide it, whenever it is decided to maintain a Canadian industry by means of tariff protection, that industry should be allowed to satisfy the normal Canadian demand so long as it keeps its prices at a reasonable level. On the other hand, Canadian producers should not be tempted by a semblance of tariff protection to embark upon lines which the nation has not definitely decided to award to them, and in which they will therefore have to share the market with outsiders.

The definitions of the different items in the existing Canadian tariff schedule are in many cases so inclusive as to apply the same tariff treatment to a very wide range of different grades and varieties. This style of definition may possibly have been borrowed from the United States, a country which has radically different conditions, in that it has a market of 120,000,000 people and is quite determined to do all its own production for that market, both of goods which it can advantageously produce and of many which it cannot. In Canada there appears to be a need for a much closer discrimination in the tariff schedules, granting facilities for the entry of particular grades and varieties of goods while the market for other grades and varieties, now covered by the same item, is reserved for the Canadian producer.

Among the types of import trade which Canada could well afford to encourage from Empire sources, and which she is not now encouraging because the tariff schedules are not sufficiently discriminatory, are a large number of the finer and more specialized grades and varieties of articles of the same class as those which in more popular grades and varieties should quite properly be given efficient protection.

The administration of a more delicately discriminatory tariff than the present one will undoubtedly require a high degree of intelligence on the part of the customs officials, and probably a slight increase in the staff, but these are not serious difficulties when so important an objective as increased Empire trade is in view. Perhaps an even more important requirement is a recognition of the basic fact I have already stated in these articles, that under an all-round and fully developed Empire preference system, importations into Canada from Empire sources are not in themselves to be regarded as detrimental to Canadian interests (a principle which of course applies to each partner of the Empire).

HOLDING INQUIRY INTO DISMISSALS

Special to The Times

Nasim, July 21.—C. W. O'Neill, chartered accountant of Duncan, appointed by the Department of Education to report on the recent dismissal of three local high school teachers, has been in consultation for two days with the school board and representatives of the Teachers' Federation. Mr. O'Neill will forward his findings to the department. The Teachers' Federation is contesting the action of the trustees on several grounds.

LIKE FARMERS MEETING AT FAIR

Canadian Press

London, July 21.—"Like farmers meeting at a fair," is the way The Morning Post describes delegates to the Imperial Conference in an editorial today. "Each values his own independence and maintains his own individuality, but is ready for a shrewd deal in butter, meat or sugar."

The position in certain parts of the Empire, for example South Africa, India and Ireland, is such that unanimity on all points can hardly be expected. "It is in practical measures and partial approaches, in business arrangements where business interests suggest them, in sinking any systematic theory of Empire and coming to grips with realities of the situation."

Like most other English newspapers, The Morning Post thinks there are large possibilities of exchange benefits to both of all parties concerned, and concludes: "If the conference can do good business, the Commonwealth of Nations may be left to look after itself."

MEDICAL STUDENTS MOST SUSCEPTIBLE

"Tuberculosis in University Students" Discussed By Expert

Kentville, N.S., July 21 (Canadian Press).—Medical students are more susceptible to tuberculosis than any other university students, according to Dr. H. W. Hetherington, chief of clinic, Henry Phipps Institute, Philadelphia, who lectured in connection with a "refresher" course for doctors of the maritime provinces at Nova Scotia sanatorium.

The course, given under direction of Dr. A. F. Miller, the sanatorium superintendent, was taken by about sixty doctors from the three provinces, many of whom had attended the annual meetings of the Nova Scotia Medical Health Officers' Association and the Nova Scotia Medical Society.

"In examining students from the various faculties at the University of Pennsylvania," said Dr. Hetherington, "we found that the incidence of tuberculosis in medical students increased with each year of the medical course until in the fourth year in 1930 it reached 21.6 per cent at the time of graduation. The actual number of students with tuberculosis disease in the lungs, discovered by X-ray examination, was twenty-five."

Of these, two already had clinical tuberculosis, seven additional had tuberculosis with symptoms or physical signs that were so trivial they had not yet realized their significance. The remainder had disease that was likely to progress, but had not yet caused any evidence of ill-health. Comparing the medical students' 21.6 per cent with that of other students at the time of graduation, the incidence of similar lesions in dental students was 10.2 per cent, law students 8.4 per cent and arts students 5 per cent.

"We have no explanation of why this difference should occur, unless it is the increased contact with tuberculosis examination of patients, or the more arduous studies of the medical students."

Poland Protests Rights of Ships

Berlin, July 21.—The Telegraph Union today quoted The Gazeta Polska, government organ at Warsaw, as saying Poland filed a protest with the German government against an alleged violation of Polish territorial rights in the Baltic.

The charge was that German warships, during a recent cruise in the Baltic, approached within the three-mile limit from the Polish shore.

CHICAGO FEARS WATER DIVERSION

Chicago, July 21.—A protest against any reference to diversion of water at Chicago in the St. Lawrence waterway treaty was forwarded to President Hoover yesterday by the Chicago Real Estate Board.

Commending the President's efforts to conclude a pact for improvement of the outlet, the board said Lake Michigan waters were not international.

Canada, in taking the position it would agree only to a treaty restricting diversion at Chicago was "merely bluffing," said the Chicagoans, adding: "Call the bluff; refuse to permit the Canadian government to dictate what we shall now do within our own borders. . . . Canada will be very glad to forget all demands in order to secure our co-operation of financial assistance in improving the St. Lawrence River, more than the United States."

The real estate board said diversion was essential to maintain a navigable depth in the new Illinois waterway, and that the war department should be lent free to divert what water may be required.

Opposition to the confirmation of the waterways treaty as a "self-out" to Canada will be expressed by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association and the Mississippi Valley Association, it is announced by leaders of the two organizations.

Clause Will Limit Guns

Geneva, July 21.—The general commission of the World Disarmament Conference yesterday received from a sub-committee the draft of a declaration to be adopted before adjournment. At the last minute there was written in a clause providing that all heavy land guns of calibres between certain limits shall be limited in number.

SEES CHEQUE, TAKES LIFE

Seattle, July 21.—Excusing himself a moment as Detective William Morrison called yesterday to question him about a cheque he had written, H. C. Prickett stepped into a closet of his home and shot himself through the temple. He died instantly. Prickett was fifty-nine years old and a widower.

Take Steps To End Tipping In French Theatres

Canadian Press

Paris, July 21.—Paris theatre-goers are taking steps to end the paying of supplementary fees when once they have bought tickets to a show. They complain that the tipping begins with the programme vendor and goes right on to the guide, who refuses to show a patron to his seat until the tip is forthcoming.

Several theatre owners recommend a small fee be added to the price of the ticket to cover staff expenses.

Rev. Mark Jukes Dies in Vancouver

Vancouver, July 21.—Rev. Mark Jukes, for more than a quarter of a century a leader in Anglican Church circles of Vancouver, died yesterday at his residence, West Thirtieth, in his ninetieth year.

He was hale and hearty up to three weeks ago, when he relinquished his duties at St. George's Church as assistant to the rector, Rev. M. H. Jackson. He had been assisting at this church for more than twenty years, following superannuation in 1911.

He is survived by three sons and two daughters, M. S. Jukes of Tacoma; Henry of Bellingham, and Gilbert, Vancouver; Miss H. Jukes and Miss M. E. Jukes, Vancouver. His wife died three months ago.

Prior to his superannuation Rev. Mr. Jukes was pastor at St. Luke's River Road for four years from 1907. For six years from 1901 he was rector of the Anglican Church at Chilliwack. Born in Ontario in 1842, both his parents passed away when he was twelve years of age. He was educated in England. Returning to Canada, he studied theology at Huron College, London.

Ordained in the early 'seventies, he was active in pioneer church work in Manitoba, and later spent ten years in the United States, going to Bellingham in 1900.

He was deeply interested in the British Israel Society and delivered his last address for the organization on June 20.

Result of Foolish Policy of Isolation

Washington, July 21.—Henry T. Rainey, Democratic leader in the United States House of Representatives, said yesterday, in discussing the forthcoming Imperial Conference at Ottawa, that "the policy of high tariff walls around the British Empire is a most dangerous policy for us."

"Already 1,200 factories have moved to Canada so they can sell their goods within the empire, and they are received with open arms," Rainey said. "It is the result of our foolish policy of isolation."

Pacific Does the Impossible

When Pacific Milk began its experiments toward packing milk in vacuum cans, experts said it was impossible. Dry foods, yes, but milk could not be handled like a dry product. But knowing how vacuum processes retain dry food flavors we were anxious to attain that perfection for Pacific. And we have done the "impossible." Pacific Milk is vacuum packed.

IN GERMANY

SHORTLY AFTER THE NEW GOVERNMENT of Franz von Papen took office the Berliner Tageblatt predicted that a military dictatorship would be established in Germany. In a very large part this prediction has come true. The Socialist government of Prussia—the state which comprises about two-thirds of the Reich—has been forcibly ejected from office and that part of the country's affairs are practically in the control of the federal administration. Martial law has been proclaimed in Berlin and in the nearby province of Brandenburg. Nightly riots are increasing the size of the death and injured list.

This action on the part of the Hindenburg-Von Papen combination simply means that the junkers are once again in the saddle in Germany. But it is obvious they have stirred up a veritable hornets' nest. A condition of incipient civil war appears to exist. Whether it will be possible to suppress the various movements which are gaining momentum as the full significance of the government's high-handed action sinks in is a doubtful question. At present the exchange of bullets and blows is between the fascists who follow Hitler, the Communists, and that very important element of the public which is opposed to both of them and want their country steered along the middle—the supporters of the republic as conceived in the Weimar constitution. They now go by the name of "Iron Fronts."

Really serious trouble began to brew for Germany when Chancellor von Papen reversed former Chancellor Brüning's order and allowed the followers of Hitler to parade in their uniforms. Although it may not have been clear to the world at the time, this was a move on the part of the new government not only to attempt to bring the Nazi troops more or less under its control, but to enlist the whole Fascist movement for the support of nationalism. The first reaction to the removal of the ban was the visit of the Premiers of the southern states—Bavaria, Württemberg and Baden—to Von Papen to announce their opposition to this decree. They were told the government intended to compel obedience, if necessary by the appointment of a Reich commissioner. It was a ticklish situation for the government to meet. Back of it, of course, the prospect of splitting the republic in half loomed up, since the answer from Bavaria, whose Premier, Dr. Held, had defied the decree, was an intimation that overriding the Bavarian state authority would be followed by an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The course taken by the Bavarian Premier started Hitler on the rampage and he demanded of Baron von Gayl, Minister of the Interior, that Dr. Held be restrained from interfering with Fascists or Fascist demonstrations in the southern state. We are told that he soothed Herr Hitler as best he could, then called a meeting of his Ministry of the Interior and the Ministers of Interior of all the German states. "I can not implore you too strongly," cried Baron von Gayl, "to bring the regulations of your states as soon as possible into harmony with our federal policy on this most important and most vital matter." The state ministers did not commit themselves and, as one commentator points out, "Fascist fury began to show itself openly for the first time against Chancellor von Papen and his 'Cabinet of Monarchs.'" His party organ, Der Angriff, denounced the new taxation decrees, reductions in the unemployment dole and the amount for invalids' and orphans' pensions, calling them "hammer blows on the backs of a starving people."

We see in this picture, therefore, the Socialists—the Democrats of Liberals of Germany—indignant at the attacks on democratic government which the Von Papen ministry began to make almost as soon as it took office, to be followed by the decree which dispossesses two-thirds of the republic of its state rights; the Fascists enraged at the government because it will not remove all obstacles in the way of political parading in uniform in Bavaria; and the Communists who are out for their own ends, anyway, and will oppose practically everything the government does. The question then arises: Will the government, recognizing the undisputed power of the Hitlerites, more or less ignore the constitutional rights of the states to say what demonstrations may or may not take place in their respective territories—thereby risking a verdict against it were the states to appeal to the Supreme Court—in order to get the support, or at least the co-operation, of the Fascists?

Should such a development take place, what position would the Socialists and the Social Democrats assume? Would they throw in their lot with the Communists, leaving the Catholic Centrists to swing more to the Right? Speculation on these questions opens up vast and sinister possibilities. The German people have been through a good deal of suffering in the last few years. They have brought to bear on their problems all the resourcefulness characteristic of them; but they do not apparently see any solution for them. They have gone through state and presidential election campaigns during which they have had to listen to all sorts of blandishments. But with another general election only a few days away, they see the whole state of Prussia under a military dictatorship, its ministry dismissed, and martial law in effect in the nation's capital. Is there a serious internal explosion, an explosion that might produce more troubles for the world, near at hand?

HIS FRIEND'S WARNING

IF MR. DE VALERA WERE A HARD-headed businessman instead of a fanatical doctrinaire, he would long ago have decided that it would be much better to pay the $15,000,000 in land annuities as they fall due and save an export trade worth about $200,000,000 a year, than default and jeopardize the very economic life of that part of Ireland for which his government is responsible.

Great Britain has imposed a tariff against Free State products that at any time can be increased up to one hundred per cent, which, of course, would mean almost total exclusion. The duty which already has gone into effect is expected within a few weeks to bring about a condition of stagnation at all Free State ports. The De Valera government has prepared a similar sort of a tariff, and the battle may be on in earnest soon unless other developments intervene. The shutting off of the trade between the two countries will cost Great Britain about $20,000,000 more than it will cost the Free State; but she is naturally in a better position to stand it. She trades with the whole world, while the amount of products the Free State sells to countries other than Great Britain is almost negligible, with the exception of Northern Ireland, her second best customer.

Senator Sean Malloy, an old friend of De Valera, has described the Free State's policy as "a hideous, nation-destroying thing which is going to plunge the country into misery, chaos and destitution," adding that "its mainspring was to get back to 1921 and another round with England." Senator Malloy thinks De Valera is determined to plunge the country into a state of ruin so the British might say "let him have his way; we won't stand between him and his isolated republic."

To this criticism De Valera replies that the situation was forced upon him. This is hardly a sound argument. He first of all repudiated an agreement which had been entered into between the Free State and Great Britain, refused to pay the half-yearly instalment on the land annuities account, and then when Great Britain agreed to submit the controversy to arbitration he insisted that this purely domestic matter as between the two governments should be dealt with by an international, not an empire, body. This the British authorities quite naturally refused to do. Mr. De Valera now is being warned by his own friends of the almost certain disastrous consequences his government's action will have.

REPRESENTING MANY MILLIONS

IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT the delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference represent a total population of more than 450,000,000 and an area of 13,909,782 miles, or about one-quarter of the known surface of the globe, distributed almost equally over the northern and southern hemispheres.

Of this vast population some 75,000,000 are white. The rest comprises 315,000,000 of the native races of India and Ceylon, 40,000,000 of black races, 6,000,000 Arabs, 6,000,000 Malays, 1,000,000 Chinese and 1,000,000 Polynesians, with various other elements. The religions represented include 210,000,000 Hindus, 100,000,000 Mohammedans, 80,000,000 Christians, of which 67,000,000 are classed as Protestants and 13,000,000 as Roman Catholics; 12,000,000 Buddhists, 12,000,000 Animists, 4,000,000 Sikhs, Jains and Parsees; 750,000 Jews, and the remainder Polytheists and others.

A ROSIER PROSPECT

IN ITS REGULAR SURVEY OF ECONOMIC conditions in the United States, The Business Week, published in New York, has at last discovered several signs which have brought cheer to its experts. It prints the following on the front page of its current issue:

"The slow, inconspicuous turns of the economic and political kaleidoscope in recent weeks have suddenly brought before the bored and unbelieving eye of business a pattern of somewhat rosier color, for the first time in more than a year. A surprising spurt of progress appears to have been made toward removing some of the international obstacles to recovery. Congress has closed a fairly constructive record of accomplishment during a difficult session and cleared the field for action of natural economic forces and convalescence of business confidence free from fear of further legislative interference for several months. Commodity prices have strengthened, partly under seasonal influences but partly also by force of more fundamental factors. Increasing firmness in security markets in face of poor past earnings reports and the low level of current business activity reflects a more hopeful view of the prospects of future improvement. Although the business barometers do not yet register the effects of these changes in the economic atmosphere, and should not be expected to do so at this customarily slack season, their increasing stability is encouraging to those who believe that the volume of production and trade must be at or near the bottom."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

NIGHTSHIRTS
The Manitoba Free Press

Further proof that the world progresses in circles, ever coming out by the same door as it went, as Omar relates, is the fact that nightshirts threaten to come back. All that is needed to give them the necessary impetus, experts in these circles state, is for the Prince of Wales to wear one. It is to be hoped it will not be necessary to photograph him in one. The Prince has a well-earned reputation as the Salesman for the British Empire, but there are limits toward which even a Prince should not be pushed. Being photographed in a night-shirt is most decidedly outside of them.

Pyjamas ousted the nightshirt about the same time that cocktails ousted hard cider as a dashing drink. The nightshirt and hard cider departed our midst arm in arm, since when the world has been in a fret and fever. Maybe cocktails and pyjamas have something to do with this. They may not be causes, but it is more than likely they are effects; and it is well known how often effects are mistaken for causes. Our people may have been trying to live up to the cocktails and pyjamas. They had dash, verve, a king of daring. To many staid folk of the nightshirt era there was always something slightly immoral in pyjamas for women. The nightshirt seemed a very cloak of respectability beside it.

The fact that the trend is back to the nightshirt may indicate many things. It may signalize an entire change in the trend of our thinking; in our outlook; in our habits and manners.

Certainly some change will have to be made by our fire departments. A gentleman coming down a fire ladder in a nightshirt would not be the most aesthetically of spectacles.

Loose Ends

Lip stick and powder and Lady Passfield—A crack in the citadel of Communism—Another political phenomenon—And an all-day sucker next door.

By H. B. W.

LADY PASSFIELD, who prefers to be known as Beatrice Webb, the distinguished British Socialist and reformer, lately toured Russia with her distinguished husband and came back with some impressions which most people consider frivolous and silly, but which appear to me profoundly significant. "It is a shame," said Lady Passfield, "that Soviet women, enjoying the same status as men, should make themselves worse than men by using cosmetics. The practice is grossly immoral! The use of rouge, powder and lipstick is characteristic of a decadent capitalist civilization. Russian women have the most beautiful complexions in the world, and although those who use cosmetics are far in the minority, none of them need to do it!"

THIS IS interesting from many viewpoints. It shows, in the first place, that the great mass of the people, the great masses of the distinguished reformers, also reveals an intriguing standard of morals when cosmetics become immoral while, in the ordinary relations of sex, the Soviet system has long since abandoned all our old-fashioned notions, condones illegitimate sex and provides free state facilities for abortion on a large scale.

BUT LADY PASSFIELD is right in being infatuated about rouge and lip stick, though she doesn't reveal the real reason. She is a distinguished reformer who probably realizes that there is something more dangerous in them than immorality and capitalism. She probably knows that they represent an instinct among women, whether they be Russian, English or Chinese, which ultimately is going to bring pure Communism and a perfectly ordered society to ruin. That is the instinct which makes women paint their faces to appear more beautiful than their neighbors. Already the Soviet government has had to create a state Powder, Rouge, Lipstick Trust, managed by the wife of the Russian Premier, to gratify this instinct, but that is only the beginning. Does anyone who knows women imagine that is going to stop there? Does anyone imagine that the women of Russia are going to be satisfied to try to look prettier than their neighbors? Next they will want silk stockings of better quality than the women down the street, then better fur coats, then larger automobiles. Before half a century has passed Russia will find the women's demands, as they are in western nations, the driving force of society, the only real reason why men engage in the unnatural occupation of toil.

AND ONCE that chain of logic gets going, pure Communism, the ideal level of everything, collapses utterly. Once women have stopped pulling ploughs long enough to paint their lips and rouge their cheeks, the distinguished reformers are going to find all their calculations upset by a curious and ungrateful thing called human nature. And besides, deep down inside them, you can be sure that even the communistic dictators of Russia are men enough to want their wives to look better than the women next door. Strong-minded women, with shiny faces and rumpled stockings, never appealed to real men anywhere, whatever they may have said for publication.

PROHIBITION, according to the best political observers I can discover in newspapers and reviews, is going to be the deciding election issue of the presidential election in the United States. This, when you come to think on it, is remarkable. Here is a nation with millions of unemployed, with its foreign trade destroyed, its whole economic fabric shaken to the bottom, its leaders insisting that it must be rebuilt. And yet the issue is not what shall be done about these things, nor what shall be done about American civilization, but what shall be done about the sale of liquor.

PROBABLY a majority of Americans, taking into consideration the children, do not use liquor, but all of them use food, clothing, fuel and shelter. Yet while the pressing problem in every home is food, clothing, fuel and shelter, while millions are trying in vain to get enough of them, the burning issue is not how the nation shall eat, but how it shall drink. Not how it shall eat, but how it shall amuse itself. It is remarkable how an electorate can be stampeded off the main road by something of this sort. It is remarkable how it will follow the trail of a red herring if it is flavoured with alcohol. It is remarkable how the public is always content to decide the smaller matters at the polls and allow the politicians to decide the larger ones privately later on, always imagining that it is running the show itself. Every child's pocket book should be inscribed with the immortal sentiment of Mr. Speaker Cagner of the House of Representatives who, as he made possible the nomination of Governor Roosevelt the other day, said these three pregnant words: "Politics is funny."

THE LITTLE GIRL from next door was over here to-day for the first time in some weeks and she had in her hand the last remains of an all-day sucker. "Guess where I got this?" said she, brandishing it beneath my nose. "I got it in Vancouver and I've had it four weeks 'cause I'm very careful to it. My mummy she only lets me have one lick every day, if I'm a good girl, and a sucker's last a long time if you only lick it once a day and then put it into your pocket, but sometimes I forget and take it out again by mistake and give it another lick when nobody is looking. Um, um. We had a lovely time in Vancouver all right. Holy Moses, but it was funny! My cousin Henry, he taught me Holy Moses and it's very smart, he say, but my mummy she doesn't like it. I don't know why, 'cause it sounds very good. It's big swearing.

SO WHEN we were in Vancouver we swam down to the beach and we picked blackberries in the woods for pie, but there wasn't enough for pie after we'd eaten a few in the woods. So then we wanted to go to England, 'cause it's right near Vancouver, but we drove and drove and looked and looked but we couldn't find England anywhere. And we couldn't see the King or the King's soldiers either, with big brass buttons on their tunics so we went to see the monkeys. The monkeys is right next door to England nearly, but not quite, but they haven't got any brass buttons on their tunics at all. But they can jump around and swing on a stick and one of the monkeys looked just like Mr. Pudding when he's mad. And there was a band what makes nice noises by blowing through a big shiny pipe and a man hitting a great big drum awfully hard. Um, um. And there was a big bear in a cage what wobbled and wobbled and ate all our crackers without even chewing of them 'cause his mouth was so big and he had tooths like Mr. Bear's, only they didn't come out. So then we drove and drove and looked and looked but we never found England and we never saw the King or his soldiers what has brass buttons down 'em."

VETERAN'S TREK TO OTTAWA

To the Editor:—According to a news item published in The Victoria Daily Times of July 9, it was stated that "The District Council of the Canadian Legion, B.C.S.L., disclaims any affiliation with the Working Class Ex-service Men's League," which organization has been soliciting funds to further the veterans' trek to Ottawa; such disclaimers are being for the purpose of prejudicing public opinion against the league.

We of the Working Class Ex-service Men's League, considering the unfilled promises made to the returned men and the puerile efforts of the Canadian Legion to have these promises kept—are pleased with the publication of the Working Class Ex-service Men's League, which organization has been soliciting funds to further the veterans' trek to Ottawa; such disclaimers are being for the purpose of prejudicing public opinion against the league.

We hope as the result of our actions to show some justification for our existence. For the information of the public a party of six left for Ottawa on Sunday to put forward the claims of the returned men. Others will leave later. Some 1,500 have gone from Vancouver. Any person who is in sympathy with the returned men and would like to assist by contributions toward their trek to Ottawa can do so by sending a check to Secretary W. E. L. 951 View Street.

THE SECRETARY

PENSIONERS AND WORK

To the Editor:—Having heard that many men usually employed in the Red Cross Workshop are idle and feeling strongly that this is a matter of public concern, I venture to trespass on your generosity in allowing me space to make a few remarks thereon. The writer understands that the men so employed are unable to compete in the ordinary way for work because of disability through war service.

That such work in the Red Cross Workshop is a good thing for those who are entitled to 100 per cent pension, or for those who have sufficient income from private sources for their needs.

Now, sir, if this is the case why are men who are receiving a very meagre pension not sufficient in many cases to keep them from want, or at least great hardship. I say, why are these men left off the staff seems to be still at their place receiving their higher wages as usual?

Is the cost of management too high that the government grant is thus absorbed?

To me this is not a matter of charity for a statesman or great general, or one who has done great service for his country, just so these men are entitled to a living in the way of work being provided for them by their country which they served so well.

There are many wrongs to be set right. Let us consider and not allow this state of things to continue. Any man receiving less than $50 per month pension should be provided with at least four hours work per day. NEMO.

RATEPAYERS' MEETING

To the Editor:—Sitting where one could see the audience at Ratepayers' Association meeting last evening it did not require much intelligence to notice that seven out of ten people were over fifty years of age. They were congregated for the purpose of "reducing school taxes 50 per cent," etc. Living in this age of boasted "enlightenment and scientific specialization" in many fields of human endeavor, one would think these old people know that education (knowledge and wisdom) are useful instruments in furthering human happiness and comfort, while living on this planet. If they were as intelligent as they sometimes insinuate they are, and really have the welfare of their own children and grandchildren at heart, they would discuss the cause of the dilemma they are in and the reduction by 100 per cent of the taxes spent for war purposes in place of reducing school taxes. I think it is Fraser in "The Golden Bough" who says, "Man is the only animal who lives by robbing his own offspring." No wonder students of human affairs such as J. M. Keynes, E. Russell, J. H. Laski and Prof. Carr-Saunders get the impression that "this is the crazy age in human history." It would be interesting to know just what the youth of to-day will think, say and do when they become aware of the fact that the Ratepayers' Association refused to pay for the education of their own children and not a whispere when asked: "What about 66 per cent of government revenues spent for war purposes?" That question caused a lull in the audience as if they all expected a bomb to explode, but no answer! A. HALLBERG, Victoria, July 20, 1932.

JOKERS TO MEET BAYS TO-NIGHT

In the opening game of the final series for the championship of the Westholme Softball League the Jokers, defending titleholders, and the Ross Bay will meet at Stevenson's Memorial Park to-night at 6.30 o'clock. Bob Whyte and Len Saxton will umpire. In the semi-final series Ross Bay defeated Totals. Ross Bay and the Jokers will play a best two-out-of-three series.

TACOMA NINE TO PLAY HERE

Green Mill Will Meet Visiting Club in Two Ball Games on Saturday

Two exhibition baseball games will be played at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday with the Green Mill opposing the Ace Furniture and Steel Company's nine from Tacoma. The visitors hold the Tacoma city championship, and are reported to have a snappy aggregation of ball tossers. The games will start at 2.30 o'clock and 6 p.m. with Allie McGregor as umpire. Arrangements have been made to bring "Scotty" Lee, champion West-minster hurler, to Victoria to pitch for the Green Mill in one of the games. Lee has pitched here on two previous occasions, defeating the Tacoma Kittens and the Forks Lumber Company, another Washington club. Leo Holden, regular Green Mill chucker, is expected to perform in the other game.

CARNERA WINS BY KNOCKOUT

New York, July 21.—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, making his first appearance in this country since his unsuccessful invasion of Europe, scored a technical knockout over Jack Gross, Philadelphia, in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Ebbets Field yesterday evening. Carnera weighed 268 pounds and Gross 206½.

The end came in ten seconds before the bell would have ended the seventh round, after Gross arose from taking a count of seven. Up until the seventh, Carnera's numerous right-handed apparently had very little effect on the Philadelphia. Gross answered the Italian's rights with an occasional offensive but failed to make the giant European give ground. In the seventh, Carnera pounded his smaller opponent almost at will, driving him into a corner. Gross managed to fight his way out of the corner, but was groggy. A flurry of rights and lefts sent Gross to the mat. He got up at the count of seven, but was out on his feet, and the referee stopped the fight.

JAIL TERM FOR BOGUS CHEQUES

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, July 21.—James Gilchrist of Ladysmith, alias George Lamont, alias Lester Williams, this morning pleaded guilty before Magistrate Potts, to charges of passing two bogus cheques and was sentenced to three months in jail.

The accused is eighteen years of age and police believe he was influenced by an experienced crook. The magistrate said he imposed a light sentence because of the prisoner's youth and hoped it would be a lesson to him in future.

BACON AND HAM EXPORT GROWS

Six Times Greater Than Year Ago, Dominion Bureau Says
Increased to 17,569,400 Pounds Valued at $1,841,127 in Half Year

Ottawa, July 21.—Export of Canadian bacon and ham continues to make impressive progress and at present it is more than six times what it was a year ago, states a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Last month the total was 3,539,000 pounds at $355,013, whereas in June last year it was 567,300 pounds at $116,924. The export to Great Britain alone was 3,076,600 pounds at $290,632, compared with 436,900 pounds at $71,676 last year.

During the first six months of the present calendar year the export of bacon and ham has increased from 4,036,300 pounds at $409,292 to 17,569,400 pounds at $1,841,127.

The six-months' export to Great Britain has increased from 3,246,200 pounds at $355,013 to 17,569,400 pounds at $1,841,127.

On the basis of last year's prices, the last six-months' export would have been valued at about $3,500,000.

AGREEMENT ON STEEL REACHED

Ottawa, July 21.—Representatives of the steel industry in Canada and Great Britain have reached "a considerable measure of agreement on Common Policy," according to a statement issued yesterday by Sir William Larkie, chairman of the British Steel Federation.

The statement declares that as a result of the meeting "it is confidently anticipated that a fuller measure of co-operation will become possible after the Ottawa conference, than has ever existed heretofore between the two industries."

The Grand Lodge will meet in Winnipeg July 27, 28 and 29, while the executive will meet on July 25 and 26. In Vancouver Mr. Lorimer will meet E. E. Hand, Grand Exalted Ruler, and the two will travel to Winnipeg together.

SON OF NOTED COMPOSER HERE

Leslie Stuart of London Has Rolls Royce Which Is Attracting Much Attention

Father Composed "Soldiers of the King"; $350,000 Suit Against Hearst and M-G-M

The large aluminum-plated Rolls Royce, which is attracting a great deal of attention in Victoria, now belongs to Leslie Stuart, whose home is in London, England, and who has come up from Hollywood to look into some copper mining property at Ahousat. The car, which is a 1911 model, but is still a car by itself, is valued at over $20,000 on this continent and is Mr. Stuart's third.

Mr. Stuart, who is staying at Langford Lake, but comes into town to collect his mail every morning, is a great admirer of this part of the country. He is considering a trip into the Cariboo shortly to investigate mining prospects, but whether or not he returns to California depends on a $350,000 lawsuit, which Mr. Stuart has launched against William Randolph Hearst, newspaper magnate; Marion Davies, screen star, and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer moving picture company regarding the rights of the famous old English opera, "Floradora."

Mr. Stuart's father, Leslie Stuart, was the noted composer who wrote the music for "Floradora" and also composed the words and music for the famous song "Soldiers of the King." The present Mr. Stuart sold the picture rights of "Floradora" to M-G-M for $25,000 and the opera was produced as a talkie with Marion Davies in the lead. In England its title was "The Gay Nineties" and on this continent "The Floradora Girl."

The lawsuit Mr. Stuart has launched is in the nature of a test case. For Mr. Stuart maintains that while he sold the picture rights for a silent film, he did not sell the dramatic and mechanical music rights for a talkie.

The lawsuit, which has now been in progress for two years, will be heard in the Los Angeles Federal Court at the end of October and preparations are now being made by the plaintiff for the successful conduct of the suit.

WRITE AGAINST JAPAN'S POLICY

Commercial Ruination of Shanghai Described in Booklet Issued By Chinese Here

Passionate censure of Japan's recent activity in Shanghai and elaborate descriptions of alleged brutalities in the streets and the general destruction committed by Japanese policy are contained in a booklet entitled "Eighty-eight Years of Commercial Progress Ruined: Shanghai Shelled and Bombed," compiled by Sargent Key, Shanghai, and published by the Victoria central committee of the Chinese National Salvation Bureau.

The booklet, described "as a collection of editorials and reports on the Shanghai war situation written by impartial foreign observers for leading British and United States papers," is dedicated "to those who espouse the cause of peace and goodwill among nations." The claim of impartiality is made because all the articles are culled from the foreign press, but the tone is definitely anti-Japanese and the booklet itself is part of the literature of the campaign being made by China to gain world sympathy in her struggle with Japan.

The commercial life of Shanghai, the preface states, has been absolutely paralyzed and the patient work of many years has been wiped out almost overnight. The work of foreign industrial and business leaders for many decades has been destroyed.

"It took fully eighty years for foreigners to turn a strip of uninhabitable marsh-land along the Whangpoo River into the great commercial metropolis in the Far East. All this labor appears to have been wasted when Japan jumped upon China by utilizing the International Settlement as a storeroom for her military supplies and death-dealing machines," the book says.

After only two weeks of the "unofficial" war, the commercial life of Shanghai had gone back two generations, the preface states. Many warehouses containing millions of dollars worth of goods were consumed in flames. Foreign financial houses were among the worst hit. All important business is at a standstill. Ships which ordinarily call at Shanghai and bring goods from Europe and the United States now dump their freight at other ports, for there is no place to store it. The people have been so impoverished that it will take years before their purchasing power can be restored to the condition existing before the outbreak, according to information given in the book.

The recent "war," which occupies the most space in the booklet, is traced from its beginning in mutual demands for apologies to its bloody culmination, when even the International Settlement "presented a scene suggestive of the worst days in Europe in 1914-18." In all there are thirty large size pages to the booklet, which, viewing as it does modern militarism in retrospect, helps to impress the reader not only with the moral wrongness of the particular Shanghai "war," but with the moral wrongness and the utter futility of all war.

COMPLETES CHINA RELIEF SCHEME

Sir John H. Simpson Achieves Gigantic Task Among Chinese

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 21.—Delivery of 480,000 tons of wheat to starving people in interior China, reconstruction in a flooded area the size of England, rebuilding of 3,000 miles of dykes, controlling 1,400,000 laborers, doing it all with the enthusiastic interference of bandits—that is what Sir John H. Simpson, C.I.E., the English director of China's gigantic flood relief programme, calls "a job of work."

But when he talked about it here today as he and Lady Simpson prepared for departure for London, he had the satisfaction of calling it a job of work done—or nearly so. Arriving here on the Empress of Japan, he is going back to England to prepare a report and will return to China in November.

Sir John, who retired from the Indian service after a distinguished career, has been doing "jobs of work" in different parts of the world for most of his life. Perhaps the Chinese flood problem, affecting 25,000,000 people, is the biggest he has tackled.

Bandits stole his grain, shot holes in his launches, shot caps off his caplins; starving men and women punctured holes in the grain sacks on the backs of coolies, collecting a dribble of precious wheat; but the loss was less than 5 per cent.

His work lay on the Yangtze and Hwai Rivers, and up the former stream past a notice board which announces "Soviet Government of China territory."

It was necessary to achieve his ends by devious and perhaps unofficial means. But his Chinese engineers built their dykes, even in Chinese Soviet territory.

It is true that the Chinese Soviet have held thirty of his engineers, ostensibly for ransom. But Sir John thinks they are holding them to see whether the new dykes stand the strain of the rainy season which has now set in.

"If the dykes don't stand I wouldn't like to be those engineers," was his comment.

Here Today - Canada's New 76 Gasoline

New UNION 76 GASOLINE

New Summer
Motor Energy
is Finest Non-Premium
Anti-Knock Gasoline ever offered in British Columbia.

New smoothness, new power, new exhilaration in motoring comes to you now in New Union 76 gasoline.

Automobile manufacturers have been constantly increasing the compression ratio of their motors. Compressing more gasoline mixture in the cylinders means more power if the explosion is controlled . . . if not, this greater explosive energy racks the motor through real, audible and also inaudible knocks. New Union 76 gasoline gives you this new energy controlled. It gives the full power intended by the high compression motor designer. 76 will prevent knocks in practically all the cars in British Columbia.

Eliminating knocks not only gives new pleasure to motoring, but it also reduces vibration, saves engine wear and cuts repair bills. Also, through not wasting energy in pre-ignition knocks and using all the power, the natural result is greater mileage.

This greater service at no extra cost, is sound, practical economy.

Test it yourself . . . here's how. Slow down to a sauntering five miles an hour in high gear with this new high octane motor fuel . . . then step on the throttle to a wide open position. Note the instant response without jerks, vibration or knocks and the smooth pulse of this new flowing power.

76 is made in British Columbia by Canadian workmen. Millions of motorists have already tried and proved this new gasoline to be the finest non-premium anti-knock fuel ever used. Try it yourself today.

Union 76 is colored orange for your identification and protection. Get it at the Orange and White Union Pump . . . Marked by the big orange banners.

SANITARY NAPKINS (Can. Pat. applied for)

AT LAST! A radically new design in Kotex sanitary protection. It is called PHANTOM KOTEX. Why? Because the ends are so flattened and tapered that it leaves no outlines even under the closest fitting gowns.

Kotex features retained. It is soft and comfortable, even after hours of use; wonderfully absorbent; can be worn with equal protection, on either side; disposable, easily.

Insist upon getting genuine Kotex, when you buy it already wrapped. Each tapered end of the new pad is stamped "Kotex" now—so you can't get inferior substitutes. And this new improvement comes to you at no increase in price!

Greater security—The smooth, snug fit gives greater wearing ease than you've ever before experienced.

MRS. BARNEY IS TO PAY FINE

Woman Recently Acquitted of Murder to Pay £50 on License Charge

London, July 21.—Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, who was acquitted two weeks ago of a charge of murder, was brought into court again to-day and fined £50 and costs for possessing a revolver without a license.

She pleaded guilty to the charge. It was during the struggle for the possession of the revolver in question that Stephen was accidentally shot, she testified at her murder trial.

She was deeply affected by allusions to the tragedy in the presentation of the case to-day and collapsed at the end and had to be assisted out of the courtroom.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

IT'S THE SEASON FOR FROZEN DESSERTS

Desserts come and go but ice cream continues to hold its place. Frozen desserts of all varieties always are created with pleasure and they are so easy to make that it seems surprising to use them in warm weather.

There are several types of freezers on the market and they all have their good points. Crank freezers, vacuum freezers, electric freezers and automatic refrigerators make it possible to produce excellent frozen desserts to suit every taste.

The crank freezer, whether it is turned by hand or electricity, makes ice cream, mousses, parfaits, ices and sherbets with perfect results. Mixtures which are frozen without stirring are made perfectly in vacuum freezers and automatic refrigerators make it possible to produce excellent frozen desserts to suit every taste.

The smaller the amount of salt used in freezing a mixture the more velvety the texture, too. This, of course, lengthens the time required for freezing.

In the case of parfaits and mixtures which ordinarily are allowed to stand frozen, the electric refrigerator is a perfect substitute for the freezer.

However, a smooth ice cream cannot be obtained unless the recipe is adapted to this method of freezing. The addition of a small amount of gelatine helps to prevent the formation of crystals and frequent stirrings of the mixture as it freezes breaks up the icy flakes. Since milk contains water which naturally crystallizes when it freezes, mixtures containing a large amount of milk are inclined to be icy. Mousses and parfaits which contain a large percentage of cream are of perfect texture, but they are too rich for many persons.

TO-MORROW'S MENU
Breakfast—Sliced apricots, corn beef hash with breakfast radishes, bran muffins, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Shrimp and pea salad, toasted muffins, baked apple dumplings, milk tea.
Dinner—Black bass baked in cream, browned sweet potatoes, spinach in lemon sauce, cucumber salad, chocolate ice cream with mint sauce, cookies, milk, coffee.

Review Held Social—Queen Alexandra Review No. 1 W. E. held its social meeting at the K. of C. Hall with Acting President Mrs. Stephen in the chair. The convener, Miss Annie Reid, thanked her committee and all those who helped to make the garden party a success. It was decided to hold the annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Bertucci, Cordova Bay, July 27. Members, juniors and friends are asked to meet at the library at 11 o'clock sharp. The meeting was brought to a close and a social evening followed and was much enjoyed. Mrs. Crowther rendered two monologues, Mrs. Gordon Valiant gave two recitations. Other items were fully enjoyed. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Trowdale for the best old-fashioned lady, Miss Audrey Applegate for the prettiest girl, and Mrs. Wate for the "dear little girl." Dancing and refreshments brought the social to a close. Miss Evelyn Dawson was the accompanist for the social. The Queen Alexandra Club will meet at the home of Miss Dorothy Vye, 2438 Richmond Avenue, to-morrow at 8 o'clock.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Bringing up several children of varying ages, desires, habits and temperaments is a tremendous job for anyone. Many mothers go down, under the surface, one obstreperous youngster, but when there are several children, the irritation of even one unmanageable child is enormous.

The following letter will sound very real to the mothers of several children. Mrs. O. P. B. writes dramatically, "I have a problem that nearly drives me wild. I have four children, a boy twelve, one of six, girl of seven and a baby of sixteen months."

THE PROBLEM

"The boy of six is my problem. He is very active and wants to imitate everything the older boy does. He has everyone as he passes them and keeps that up all day. I've tried keeping him in the back yard, but he gets in fights with the kids next door and so I let him go. The first thing I know he is right in the middle of the street with his wagon. I could call and call him all day long and he won't move unless I come out with a switch or a strap. I get so aggravated I fuss and fight and lose my temper, but this does not help him try to please me. How can I train him?"

WORDS INEFFECTIVE

There is much to say and not much space in which to say it. In the first place, you have learned through experience that words are not effective. Acts are. And they need to be acts. You can't trust a child of this age to take care of himself; you have to be responsible for his safety. Neither words nor acts will help unless they are followed by acts, to teach him that he is to stay out of the street. Tell him when he goes out to play that if he goes in the street he'll be brought in the yard. Go after him the very moment he goes out and bring him in and keep him in. Don't let him stay in the street a minute before you get him. He will learn that if he wants to play outdoors, he has to stay out of the street. That is what you want him to learn, isn't it?

A certain amount of fighting is to be expected of children. By such activity they actually learn how to get along together. If the fighting is proving dangerous to anyone, your child or the neighbors, leave the child alone. If the fighting is dangerous, take your child to the doctor; just say, "When you can't play in peace, you'll have to play alone."

A FORWARD STEP

When you cease to expect magic results from sticks and straps, you'll make a forward step. I have learned that. How to Manage the Child Wisely. "How to Meet the Child's Opposition." and "What Should the Parent Do Instead of Spank?" which I think you'll find helpful. You may have one or all of them if you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Losing your temper shows the child that he is the powerful one. In that case he'll go as far as he dares, waiting for the mother to give in and let him blow up. Spend a few days getting yourself on the right track. Let him know that you want to trust him and as the more manageable children? You can only know what you tell me—not the whole story, perhaps.

To-morrow: "Remodeling Baby's Kars is Seldom Successful."

Give him chances to imitate his brother. I see no real crime in that. Perhaps you are limiting his freedom, or his activities unnecessarily. Do you show him that he is as dear to you as the more manageable children? You can only know what you tell me—not the whole story, perhaps.

BANFF TO HAVE EARLIER SEASON

Banff, July 21.—Indications in the Canadian Rockies bid fair to bring the current season to a close earlier than usual. According to H. F. Matthews, general manager of Canadian Pacific Hotels, western line, who has just concluded an extensive survey of the hotels and bungalow camps operated by the company in the famous Canadian summer holiday area.

Golfers from all parts of Canada and the United States will gather at Banff from August 15 to 20 for the tourney on the links of the Banff Springs Hotel, a mile above sea level, for the Prince of Wales trophy, which for which have already begun to come in. Almost coincident with this event will be the Indian celebrations, from August 19 to 21, attended by Stoney, Cree and Kootenay.

In an interview yesterday, Mr. Matthews announced the closing date for all Canadian Pacific hotels and bungalow camps in the Rockies as the evening of Wednesday, September 7.

No More Piles

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

You itching, bleeding or protruding Piles only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. Hem-Roid, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID tablets have an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when McFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and druggists everywhere invite every sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

BLIND ENJOY LOVELY GARDEN

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart Hosts to Sightless and Guides Yesterday

Presentation Made to Charming Hostess in Appreciation of Her Hospitality

That inner vision which seems to be the corollary of sightlessness came to the aid of the blind guests who were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart at "Benvenuto" yesterday afternoon and enabled them to enjoy the many beauties of these lovely gardens with an appreciation which was touching in its sincerity. As the blind guests wandered through the grounds, their individual guides sketched in vivid language the charms of the scene, and the fragrance of the flowers and an occasional gentle touch of the blossoms by sensitive fingertips completed the picture for the members of the party.

Under the direction of Fred Landsberg, who was in charge, the party of fifty blind guests and their guides left town in the bus supplied by the Gray Line and in private cars. Mr. and Mrs. Butchart were awaiting the guests on their arrival and cordially welcomed them to "Benvenuto" before conducting them to the sunken garden. Later the party was entertained at a delicious tea served in the garden.

PRESENTATION MADE
Before leaving for the city, M. C. Robinson, superintendent of the blind in British Columbia and Alberta, thanked the host and hostess for their many kindnesses, and on behalf of his afflicted friends, presented Mr. and Mrs. Butchart with three wicker tea trays, made by A. H. Crocher of this city.

Among the guests present, beside the blind, were: Mayor David Leeming, Reeve William Crouch and Mrs. Crouch, M. C. Robinson, Miss Stark, Mrs. Colgate (Royal Institute of the Blind, London, Eng.), Miss Crease, Mrs. P. H. Fitzsimmons, D. McBride, J. V. Johnson, W. Ellis Brown, G. H. Stevens, E. D. Lalachur, B. Johnson and Fred Landsberg.

Among the blind guests were Mrs. Gunilla of Garbally Road, who has attained the great age of ninety-six years, and who had not been out of her home for four years; Mrs. Batin, eighty-two years of age, a resident of the Aged Ladies' Home, and Mr. Welcher of 410 Linden Avenue, who with his wife, recently took up his residence here.

The blind people wish to express their sincere thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Butchart for their kind hospitality, to the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club and the Gray Line Company for supplying transportation, and especially to Mr. Landsberg for his generous efforts for their comfort and pleasure.

Hollywood is seven miles northwest of the business section of Los Angeles.

Banished For Brewing Tea For Ailment

New England Woman Punished in 1637 for Prescribing Tea for Neighbor's Stomach Ache.

Boston, Mass., July 21.—Although the unlicensed practice of medicine is still unlawful in Massachusetts, the penalties for so doing are not as severe as in 1637, when Jane Hawkins was banished to the Rhode Island wilderness for prescribing some herb tea for a neighbor's stomach ache. Mrs. Hawkins, according to official papers of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, which were found recently by Herbert H. Hall, state archivist, was the motherly type of New England housewife who never failed to go to the relief of the sick and unfortunate of the community.

Her herb prescription gained her local fame and came to the attention of the authorities, who accused, tried and convicted her of practicing medicine without permission and sentenced her to a life of exile in the woods.

In 1646 her sons, James, Job and Thomas, filed a petition with the General Court for her return, which was refused after much deliberation on the grounds that Jane Hawkins was a "dangerous person." Finally she was granted probationary leave and returned to her home colony in 1650. In about a month's time, however, Mother Hawkins brewed another cup of tea to ease a neighbor's suffering, and was again sent to the open spaces.

In 1655 it was decided she was too dangerous to allow to remain in the country and arrangements were made to have her deported to England. She was given two months to prepare for the voyage, but died before the time was up as a result of years of privation and hunger suffered while wandering in the woods.

Her defence against the charges made against her, Mrs. Hawkins argued in vain that she had acted only in cases of necessity, where something had to be done to relieve suffering and there was no doctor within miles of the neighborhood.

Hint to Potato Peelers

Housewives will save themselves a 50 per cent expenditure in energy if they will sit down while peeling potatoes, according to a report presented before the Home Economics Association by Miss Verona W. Swartz. Miss Swartz, who gave a report of scientific investigations at the State College of Washington, warned women not to perch on kitchen stools for this task. A comfortable chair is advised. The interest aroused over the performance of this simple task shows the degree to which efficient organization has entered the kitchen.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

LEAP YEAR BRIDE
by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

Mrs. Moreau, from the floor above, stood in the hall.

"I haven't time to stop," she said, "but I thought you'd like to know Miss Jamieson is going to get well. I've just been talking to the janitor. He said the hospital found she had an aunt in Chicago and they got in touch with her. She's coming—the aunt I mean—and if she has money enough to do that it probably means she can take care of the girl and see her through."

"I'm so glad!" Cherry said fervently. "And thanks for telling me. I've been thinking about her all morning."

"It's bad business to be sick and alone in a city," Mrs. Moreau said, shaking her head. "Well, I must be getting upstairs."

Bad business indeed! After she was alone again Cherry got out her purse and examined its contents. There was $2.75 inside.

On impulse, she hurriedly changed to street clothes. Pinky, the kitten, was dozing on the window seat as Cherry softly closed the door behind her and went down the stairs.

She boarded a downtown car and rode to Twelfth Street. Lawrence's flower shop in the corner of the Wellington Hotel was where Cherry had always bought flowers. She reached the shop and paused before the window display.

Tall, long-stemmed roses and exotic lilies filled three huge vases that stood on black velvet. They were beautiful roses. They must cost a great deal—turning the girl walked down the street. There were other florists' shops. She would find one less expensive than Lawrence's. Cherry tramped for half an hour and finally was satisfied. She came to a small shop flaunting price marks all over its windows. "Roses 75 cents." "Lilies 50 cents a bunch." "Iris 75 cents."

Cherry entered and paid 50 cents for a large bunch of lilies. The clerk told her, "That's extra. It'll cost 25 cents to have them delivered."

Cherry paid the extra quarter. She wrote Miss Jamieson's name on a white card and the address of the hospital. On a separate card to be enclosed with the flowers she wrote, "Best Wishes from a Friend."

There was less than $2 in her purse (car fare had taken 10 cents) when she left the shop.

"That means we'll have eggs again for dinner," Cherry told herself. "Dan won't mind when he knows why it happened. Wonder whether he'd like 'em fried or in an omelet?"

She was considering this problem and had almost decided to undertake an omelet when she recognized a young man coming toward her. Cherry stopped. There was a stationery store in another moment she would have entered it but the young man called her name.

"Well, Cherry!" he exclaimed. "This is certainly luck. Haven't you seen you for days?"

"I've been shopping," she told him. "It's nice to see you again."

"You don't say that any too convincingly," Max Pearson laughed. "I've got a test. If you really mean it come and have lunch with me."

CHAPTER XXIV
Max Pearson studied the menu. "Like scallops?" he asked. "All the sea food is very good here."

How handsome he looked to-day! Cherry meeting Pearson's eyes, glanced down again quickly at the card before her.

The sentence but said, "Where's that waiter? I want him to bring some matches."

He began talking of the office and Cherry was interested. The sense of wariness—the feeling that she must be on her guard with Pearson—left her. There was no use telling herself that she should not have been there. Cherry knew very well that she was enjoying this luncheon. It was pleasant to sit across the table from such an attractive, entertaining young man and it was certainly a treat to eat food that she had not herself prepared. Yes, she was enjoying the luncheon.

She told Max about the kitten and he seemed amused at her description. Somehow Dan's name entered the conversation. Cherry had a sudden inspiration. She leaned forward.

"There's something I'd like to ask you," she said. "I've wanted to talk to someone about it for a long time. I believe you're the person."

"Fire away!"

Pearson was holding a lighted match to the tip of his cigarette. His eyes, intent on the flame, did not waver. "It's about Dan," the girl went on earnestly. "I want to know if you think he can write. I don't mean just things for newspapers. I mean do you think he might be able to write short stories or a novel? Dan says there isn't any future for him in reporting. He wants to write for magazines—maybe books. Do you think he can do it? I don't mean right away but some time. Do you think he can do it if he works hard?"

The cigarette was glowing now. Pearson exhaled a cloud of smoke before he answered.

"That's a difficult question," he told her. "Hard to say. Practically every newspaper man in the country—woman too—is sure that he or she can turn out the great American novel. All they need is a little time. A chance to get away from the grind and write. They keep talking about it for years but somehow few of them ever get anything done. Oh, I'm not saying all this about Dan, understand! I'm talking about the great majority. You see, writing is hard work. I know because I've sold a few things myself."

He mentioned a couple of essays that had appeared in a magazine of high literary standing.

"They'd take more, too," he went on. "But I just can't seem to get to work. Lazy, I guess."

"But about Dan—" Cherry persisted. "He's clever. Pearson went on. "Dan's written some swell news stories. Has an original way of putting things. I don't honestly know if he'd be any good at fiction, though. I didn't know he'd ever tried it. The only way to find out if he can make the grade is to try. He'll have to be willing to work!"

"Then," said Cherry slowly, "that will have to be my part. To help him work."

"It's discouraging business," Pearson warned. "Even the most successful authors get lots of manuscripts back. When you're beginning you have to expect rejection."

"The girl nodded. 'I suppose so,' she agreed. 'I suppose so.'"

There was quiet between them interrupted by the appearance of the waiter. He placed ice before them and poured the coffee.

"Look here," said Pearson briskly, when they were alone again. "I've just had an idea. Didn't Dan say the other evening that you like to drive a car?"

Cherry smiled. "I love it!"

"Then here's my idea. That bus of mine stands in the garage more than half the time. I never use it during the day except on Wednesdays. That's my day off from the office. I'll tell them the garage they're to let you have it whenever you want it."

"Oh, but I couldn't—"

"Couldn't what? You could certainly drive it, and the waiter who took the order greeted him as an acquaintance of long standing."

"Now then," Max said when the question of food had been settled, "tell me what you've been doing."

"Just the usual things. Trying to remember to salt the potatoes and how to open a can without cutting myself. I'm still one of the world's worst cooks!"

"You are—" Pearson began and then checked himself. He did not finish.

rusty, battered roller skate as that one you have. Where'd you get it?"

"From Billie Wagtail," Uncle Wiggily didn't say how much he had paid for it.

"Oh, so that's the old skate Billie has been trying to sell us fellows the past week!" laughed Jackie. "Hi! Hi!"

"What's so funny about it?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Why, Billie lost his other skate a long time ago," said Jackie. "He's been trying ever since to get enough for this one so he could buy a baseball, but he couldn't do it."

"Oh, yes, he's done it," said Uncle Wiggily, simple like and resigned. "He sold me the skate. But I'll sell it to you for a penny, Jackie. Uncle Wiggily didn't want his wife to know how foolish he had been."

"But I haven't got a penny," said Jackie again.

"I'll lend you the penny," offered Uncle Wiggily. "Come on, buy this skate of me," and he held out a penny to the doggie boy who took it in his paw. Then Jackie said:

"Is this penny mine to do as I please with, Uncle Wiggily?"

that the Wolf did not jump on him. Uncle Wiggily sat down backward. And in this way he had a funny ride down hill. Faster and faster the roller skate coasted backward down with the rabbit. Faster and faster, the Wolf ran after the bunny, but could not catch him and soon Mr. Longears was safe at the bottom of the hill. So, after all, it was a good thing he bought the roller skate.

And if the bath tub will lend the milkman's horse its tooth brush to tickle the ear of corn, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's water gun.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Why Should a Man Support His Wife?
Old Man's Money Cannot Compensate for Young Man's Love and Easy Conscience;
How Stigma of Illegitimacy May Be Lightened

DEAR MISS DIX—If a man and woman love each other, why should the man provide for the woman?
 A. B. C.

Answer—Primarily because if a man loves a woman he desires to provide for her and protect her from all of the hardships of life. A man's chivalry instinctively expresses itself in a desire to shield his own woman and keep her soft and warm.

Besides this, the husband provides the wife because for the man to bring home the bacon and for the woman to fry it seems the natural vision of labor in family life. Our ancestors established the custom when the male foraged for his hairy fate and fetched back the wild animals which provided the food and clothing for his wife and offspring.

The idea of the man being the breadwinner and the woman the breadmaker is based, of course, upon the conception of its being the woman's function to bear and rear the children, and that while she is doing this she has neither the strength nor the time to do anything else, and that theory, in my opinion, still holds good.

Having babies and bringing them up properly is a full woman-sized job, and all that any woman has the health and intelligence to accomplish. Therefore, during this important time in her life when she is making her most important contribution to the world she should be provided for and have her material wants supplied.

Of course, under present economic conditions it is often necessary for a woman to work both inside and outside of the home and not only to bear the children, but to provide for them. But this is always a great misfortune. No woman can work to the limit of her strength every day at some job without depriving her children of the vitality that she should give them, nor can any mother be away from home all day and give her children the rearing that they should have.

We have satisfactory substitutes for almost everything else under the sun, but human ingenuity has not been able to devise a synthetic mother as good as the real thing. It takes a mother's never-wearying care to form little characters and coerce little sinners into walking the straight and narrow.

Of course, if a married couple have no children and if the woman has a trade or profession by which she can earn enough to support herself or if she has a private fortune, that alters the case. Then there is no reason why her husband should provide for her if she is amply able to provide for herself.

But most men like to have their wives dependent upon them and enjoy providing for them, and I should certainly hesitate a long time before I married a man who is balking at this before marriage.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Please advise me. A wealthy man is madly in love with me. He is burdened with a wife and four small children whom he has used to love. He could give me all the luxuries a woman craves. I dearly love a poor hard-working man and it will be years before he could give me anything more than a living. What shall I do?
 E.

Answer—If you want to be happy, marry your poor sweetheart and save your heart and your soul.

Unless you are as hard as rock and are utterly lacking in conscience you will never find any contentment in a home, no matter if it is a palace, that you have built on the ruins of another woman's home. I have seen many women try it, but I have never yet seen one who was sitting pretty in a house that she knew belonged by rights to a sister woman.

Always the woman is thinking of that other woman of whom her husband wearies and wondering if he will forsake her some day for a younger and fresher face. Always she is thinking that he abandoned the children he had brought into the world and wondering if he would turn his back on her children as casually as if they were so many alley cats.

Of course I can understand how alluring to a poor girl are fine clothes, fine car and a fine house and idleness. The things she has always wanted and has never had. She thinks it would be perfect bliss not to have to get up in the morning and punch a time-clock in a store or office. Not to have to stand behind a counter or pound a typewriter. Above all, to be able to buy imported finery instead of selling it.

But did you ever think, my dear, how little money really buys? After you have filled your stomach with food and put a pretty dress on your back and ridden until you are tired in a car, what will money buy you that you want? You can be as lonesome in a palace as you can in a hall bedroom if you have no congenial person with whom to spend the time. You can be as bored by a rich old man as you could by a poor one. Your heart can ache for love under silk as desolately as it could under cotton.

Believe me, child, a bungalow or a two-by-four flat that you share with the man you love will have far more happiness in it than a mansion on the avenue where you spend your evenings yawning in the face of a sugar papa or whom you care nothing, under whose touch you shiver instead of thrill and who represents nothing to you but the price at which you sold yourself.

Far better send the old man back to his wife and children and marry the young one who cannot give you luxuries, but can give you the most priceless thing in the world—love.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a friend, a bachelor of forty-five, who was an illegitimate child and who says that he will never marry so that when he is dead the stigma upon his name will be eliminated. He quotes: "The iniquities of the fathers shall be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation." What is your opinion of the position of the illegitimate in the sight of God and the eyes of the world?
 GEORGE.

Answer—I think that God must look down with a particularly pitying tenderness on illegitimate children, because they are made to suffer so cruelly for a sin they did not commit, and I consider that there is nothing more inhuman and nothing of which we should be so heartily ashamed as the attitude that we miserable, weak, erring mortals, guilty of so many wrongs ourselves, take toward these unfortunate.

Certainly lack of charity and kindness can go no further than making a poor little innocent child pay the price of his mother's frailty and putting upon it a stigma that follows it through life, but fortunately we are getting more tolerant and broadminded and the bar sinister is not the shame now that it used to be. In some States laws have been enacted that give an illegitimate child the right to share in his father's estate. And the children of unmarried mothers are not the outcasts that they once were.

I think that your friend takes the status of his birth too seriously, and that the fact that he has made a fine man of himself is of much more importance than if he had had a regular father.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1932

Good and evil planetary influences contend for the horoscope for this day, according to astrology. The morning is a time for watching one's step.

In the early hours there may be a tendency toward nerve strain and irritability. The wise will not notice the thermometer and will forget the unpleasant things that assail the attention.

Accidents may be numerous while this way prevails. Railways and automobiles may be peculiarly affected by adverse aspects.

Although the stars should in their rule to-day encourage optimism, human nature may be difficult to influence for the habit of expecting the worst may be conspicuous among both men and women.

This is read as a fortunate time to visit persons who wield power and to obtain from them promises of future favors. Politicians should make the most of the opportunity that are presented under this direction of the stars.

Good luck appears to be promised for many persons in authority. Critics of public men will become interested in subjects and other summer diversions, the seers foretell.

The evening of this day should be favorable to elderly persons, bringing them reverence and honor. Age will be more generally estimated in the state of mind rather than in the number of years, as astrologers declare, as the century reaches its fourth decade.

The seers stress the importance of each person assuring a balanced budget and ward of the danger of ignoring honest debts. They who read the stars discover fore-shadowing of tests of character that will establish the status of the future.

Exacts of morals and inability to carry personal responsibilities will be less and less tolerated as the world attains its readjustment, social and political. Newspapers are to carry much sensational matter that will inspire a number of libel suits, it is foretold. Changes in ownership and management of many journals is prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of success in business. Lands may be acquired and legacies may be received.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly practical and reliable. Many subjects of this sign attain high place through their unaided efforts.

Among those who have celebrated this as a birthday are Cesare D. Arqua, 1831, portrait painter; John D. G. Shea, 1834, historian.

ROTARIANS WIN CRICKET VICTORY

Fine Bowling and Fielding at Nanaimo Service Club

Special to The Times.
Nanaimo, July 21.—In the Service Club's cricket series the Rotarians yesterday defeated the Kiwanis club team by the narrow margin of eight runs in a low scoring game. The Rotarians' win was attributed to fine batting of P. Cowman and fine fielding by George S. Pearson, M.L.A., who brought off two magnificent catches when Byrne and Mallins were knocking off runs necessary to win. Rev. B. E. Spurling batted well for Kiwanis, and Addison, Kiwanis' bowler, performed the hat trick.

Adventure of the Sea

IV—AT THE MUSEUM
Of course little Roberta could not be kept out of the secret. She saw that things were stirring when her grandfather left to go to the great city to see the director of the Museum of Natural History, and in answer to her questions he told her about the adventure which was planned.

"I think she would be good for a long sea trip," said Allen.

After the captain had left, Allen and Roberta strolled down to the wharf to look at "Sister Sue," the steamer which had given them so much delight during voyages they had made in summer vacation times, up and down the sea coast.

To tell the truth, the vessel was not much to look at. It was old-fashioned, not at all like the floating palaces which carry passengers across the Atlantic, but in the eyes of the boy and the girl it was the best old boat in the world.

"I think she would be good for a long sea trip," said Allen, as he and his sister stood proudly gazing at the vessel.

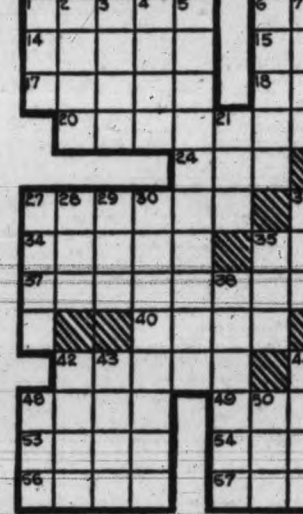

Meanwhile, Captain Thompson was making his way to the Museum of Natural History in the big city. In one hand he carried a good-sized satchel.

TALA BIRELL AT CAPITOL

Talented European Actress Has Leading Role in "The Doomed Battalion"

Tala Birell is the talented European actress whose recent brilliant work in emotional roles has won her an unusual career, with the promise of true greatness. "Tragedy entered my life early—too early," says Miss Birell. "It came in the form of war, and it stayed through all of my impressionable years. I was just five years old when the Austrian archduke was murdered in Sarajevo. I had barely turned seven when the Rumanian government seized my father. We were living in Bucharest when Rumania declared war against Germany and the Central Powers. Fortunately, influence secured us the opportunity to escape from the country, but the Austrian border was closed, and we were forced to journey in an special embassy train through hostile Russia, far north and down through Sweden to our native land.

"I can never forget the hazards we encountered and the fears we experienced on this perilous flight. Young as I was at this time, I can still recall vividly the pathetic spectacle of Russian boys in uniforms, many of them thirteen and fourteen years old, huddled together at the railway stations, we passed on their way to slaughter in the name of a cause which was not theirs, but we were enemies, and they threw stones through our windows with savage oaths. I could not understand why I should be hated so, when I wanted to be a friend."

Tala Birell's scintillating performance is one of the many points of high drama in Universal's "The Doomed Battalion" now playing at the Capitol Theatre. The story is a gripping one of nations at war among the jagged peaks of the Austrian Tyrol. Rare views of spectacular grandeur enhance the unique theme of the story. Cyril Gordon directed, and the cast includes Tala Birell, Luis Trenker, Victor Varconi and Henry Armetta.

GROUP THEATRE GAINS IN FAVOR

Co-operatives Come Into Their Own on Broadway As Poor Plays Force New Ideas

New York, July 2.—Experimental theatres, at one time looked upon as "Bohemian" movements and taken lightly by commercial showmen, have come into their own. Times when the Theatre Guild, the Washington Square Players, and the Provincetown Playhouse existed largely on enthusiasm. To-day, for economic rather than Bohemian reasons, a prolific movement of similar groups has arisen. The leaders of the stage, under pressure of poor plays and bad business, have been forced to conclude that new ideas are needed.

Success of the experimental groups is exemplified in the once lowly Theatre Guild, Broadway's most successful business-to-day and leader in all road activities of the legitimate stage. Next season it is believed at least twelve co-operative groups will be in operation, among them the Civic Repertory, originated by Eva Le Gallienne, the Actor's Theatre, the Stagers, the Broomsticks, the Provincetown Players, the New York Repertory, the Co-operative, and the Group Theatre.

Most of them will start with little capital, the actors taking a percentage of receipts instead of fixed salaries.

FINE CAST AT THE COLUMBIA

Two of the most admired members of the screen's younger set of featured players, Norman Foster and June Clyde, are together in University's sparkling romance, "Steady Company," continuing last Saturday on the Columbia programme.
Foster and Miss Clyde are two of the most popular of the new generation of stars, and reported at their best in this swift drama of a truck driver who makes the supreme attempt at fame through boxing gloves.
Henry Armetta, Walter Miller, J. Farrell MacDonald, Willard Robertson, Zaas Pitts and Jack Perry are in the cast which Edward Ludwig directed.
So well did Foster and Miss Clyde team together that they were cast also for the romantic leads in "The Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood."

Matt Moore, of the famous Moore brothers, has his biggest screen role since "The Front Page" in the new Howard Hughes production, "Cock of the Air," now playing at the Playhouse Theatre.
Matt plays the part of a comic orderly in this amazing farce.
As always, when really given something to do, Matt clicks 100 per cent, and in "Cock of the Air," wins a lion's share of the laughs.
"Cock of the Air," a United Artists picture, has Chester Morris in the title role, with Billie Dove supplying the chief feminine appeal.
Others in the cast include Yola D'Avril, Walter Catlett, Louis Alberni and Vivien Oakland.
Also being shown on the same programme in "Bulldog Drummond."

MANY SECURED MORE PENSION

Canadian Legion Pension Bureau Obtained Increases For Veterans

More than $35,000 of back pensions has been obtained for veterans residing in British Columbia, and annual increases aggregating $22,572 have been secured for pensioners as a result of the labors of the pension bureau of the provincial command of the Canadian Legion during the last year.

These figures were presented to a special session of the provincial command held at Vancouver, when Robert Macdonald, organizing secretary, also reported that membership was increasing. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Macdonald in recognition of his success in times of difficulty.

Arrangements were completed for the provincial convention to be held at Revelstoke, on August 17, 18 and 19, when pension resolutions from various branches will be dealt with.

The executive reported that last month it had been successful in obtaining an increase in the scale of relief for unmarried pensioners, the new monthly allowance being $24 instead of $20.

Delegates to Revelstoke from Victoria will extend an invitation to the convention to meet next year in Victoria. They will also seek to bring to this city the conventions of state organizations of the Canadian Legion in California, Oregon and Washington. The delegates will advocate that all these organizations hold their meetings at the same time, at a date as close as possible to the national convention, which will be held in Vancouver next year.

Jack Cribb Will Sail at Olympics

San Pedro, July 21.—After a committee decision to throw out a protested first race in the battle for the six-meter class berth on the United States Olympic yachting team, Nalad of San Francisco slipped to a fifty-seven second victory over Gallant, Los Angeles sloop, off this port yesterday.

Nalad was officially credited with two victories to one for Gallant yesterday evening. If Mike Cassey sails the northern boat to a first-to-day, he will be the United States candidate in the Olympics. If Gallant wins, a sail-off will be required.

The losing boat will be chartered by a group of Canadian yachtsmen and sailed in the international by Jack Cribb of Vancouver.

In the light air, Nalad stole a lead from the heavy weather Gallion on rounding the first marker of the six-meter race yesterday and covered twelve miles in two hours, twenty-seven minutes, twenty-five seconds.

Recalls Old Days In Canadian West

Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior in Laurier Government, Came to Edmonton by Ox Cart Fifty-seven Years Ago and Was Fur Trader Before Entering Public Life; Remembers Time When Blackfoot Indians Were Feared; Is in City Now in Course of Investigation of Railway Crossing Accidents.

Bearing his seventy-nine years lightly and continuing to take the keen interest he has taken in Canadian affairs for many years, Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior in the Laurier Government from 1905 to 1911, left this afternoon for Vancouver after a brief stay at the Empress Hotel here.

Although he retired from the Board of Railway Commissioners in 1928 because he had reached the age limit, Mr. Oliver is still actively associated with the board as an investigator of the subject of level crossing accidents.

A pioneer of the prairie regions, he first sat in the House of Commons at Ottawa in 1895 as a member of the Liberal party, and remained in the House until 1917. It was said of him that governments came and went, but Frank Oliver went on in spite of them.

The former cabinet minister was born in Ontario, but went to Winnipeg in 1873. In 1876, when he was twenty-two years old, he went to Edmonton, which was then part of the Northwest Territories. In those days transportation was difficult.

An eastern Canadian had to go south to Duluth on the far western end of Lake Superior, take the Great Northern to Moorhead, which was the furthest point reached by the railroad on the Red River, where it crosses the International Boundary. Steamboats took the traveler up the Red River to Winnipeg, and from there on any cars were required. On the prairies far to the west. This is the route Mr. Oliver journeyed.

INDIANS NOT BAD

To the Northwest Territories, which Mr. Oliver reached fifty-six years ago, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police went two years later and by a policy of courage, conciliation and tact were winning over the war-like Blackfeet, in what is now southern Alberta, to law and order.

Though the Blackfeet brought trouble to those who ventured into their country and though their meetings with the Crees to the north and with the Whites often resulted in bloodshed, Mr. Oliver was not a hostile to the Indians of the popular conception of white-Indian relations as represented by Zane Grey books and wild west movies. Outside of Blackfoot country, he said, there were no real Indians. The Redskins that he met in Toronto or Victoria.

The northern Indians were already peaceful when Mr. Oliver arrived on the scene and only gave way to the influence of the half-breeds, they rose in 1885 in the second Riel Rebellion.

Many of the pioneers of the United States west were pretty "hard-boiled" men and were often in the line of the law, but even their dealings had been exaggerated, he felt. In contrast to them, the pioneers of the Canadian west never carried revolvers, because there was no need to.

In fact, the 300 or so mounties were actually in good standing with Blackfoot public opinion, since they had won the goodwill of the chiefs by suppressing the liquor trade, which was the Yankee who came in from Montana often as outlaws. The Blackfoot chiefs realized that the "fire water" was wrecking their men and were alarmed also by the trade in slaves in the United States west, which they foresaw as a menace to their sovereignty. Anyone who helped keep these immigrants away was a friend, the Indians considered.

The difference in the attitudes of the Canadian and United States pioneer to the Indians was clearly seen when the Blackfeet Treaty was drawn up in 1877 at Calgary, which is a few miles east of Calgary on the main line of the C.P.R. Mr. Oliver attended the conference, by which the Indians promised to abide by British law and to give up their nomadic life.

The Blackfeet are still 5,000 strong on the reservations of southern Alberta, but their number is three quarters of what it was fifty years ago and Mr. Oliver believes that they will gradually die out because they cannot live in a white civilization. The Indians is a natural born gentleman, Mr. Oliver said with a smile, in drawn on his western trip.

Alpine Party Find Sport In Snow of Plateau Area

Ten-day Camp in Vancouver Island's Famous Mountain Resort Ended

Leader to Prepare New Chart of Altitudes After Exploration

Heavy sleet storms, snow and pelting rain, tobogganing and a good deal of climbing were among the experiences of a group of ten members of the Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club of Canada, who returned yesterday from a ten-day camp in Vancouver Island's playground of snows, the Forbidden Plateau.

Under the guidance of C. L. Harrison and Guy M. Shaw, the alpinists penetrated into several practically undiscovered parts of the plateau, charting as they went, and located a number of new and beautiful lakes in the "land of the red snow."

Although unfavorable weather greeted the party early on their trek in from Courtenay, and continued for more than half their stay, they found plenty to do after pitching camp at the mountain base across the plateau, 4,000 feet up from sea level.

Revision of the map of the plateau will be one of the main results of the journey, Mr. Harrison drew up the existing map in 1928, but stated that from the explorations of this year's party the former chart would be revised and a complete map of the area would be available.

CAUGHT IN SNOWSTORMS

Mount Arthur and Mount Albert Edward were covered by the climbers as well as a string of unnamed mountains and a range behind Mount Albert Edward. In the mountains they were overtaken twice by snowstorms.

Mr. Harrison stated the snow surface on the mountain slopes was exceptionally good for climbing at this time of year, being hard and affording a firm foothold.

WOMAN'S SCREAM SCARES PROWLER

Springfield Avenue Resident Roused From Sleep By Attempt to Open Door

Screams of Mrs. D. W. Graham, the sole occupant of the house, frightened away a prowler who had his hand on the bedroom door of her home, 420 Springfield Avenue, at 3:30 o'clock this morning, according to a police report.

Police rushed to the house in response to an urgent telephone call from Mrs. Graham, but the intruder had departed hurriedly in the meantime.

Mrs. Graham told the police that she was awakened by the sound of someone trying the handle of her bedroom door, which she locks at night. She screamed and then heard the prowler scurrying away.

Constable W. Harper discovered the intruder had entered through an upstairs window, and had apparently left the same way when Mrs. Graham screamed.

Potatoes Stolen From Park Plot

Superintendent Gets a Good Potato Crop in Beacon Hill and Someone Found Out

Parks Superintendent W. H. Warren is raising a fine crop of potatoes which will be given to needy families in the city, but someone cannot wait.

Under cover of night quite a number of them have disappeared recently, and steps are being taken to catch the potato thief.

The plants which are in a plot on the east side of the park near the corner of May and Cook Streets were put in to prepare the ground as a flower bed. The parks superintendent expects seven or eight tons of potatoes in the fall, unless the midnight prowler gets them first.

JOE WRIGHT USE OF LASH IS BEATEN IN U.S. URGED

Famous Canadian Sculler Loses to W. Rutherford, U.S., at St. Catharines

St. Catharines, Ont., July 21.—In a smashing upset, W. Rutherford Jr., Princeton, to-day defeated Joe Wright, Toronto, former diamond sculler winner, in the quarter-mile dash at the Canadian Henley.

In the senior fours, West Sides of Buffalo defeated Hamilton Leaders and Toronto Dons in 7:43. Argonauts of Toronto, were scratched.

Eddie Sneed, Vancouver, won the first heat of the 140-pound singles in 3:31 3-5. J. Flaville, Argos, was second and A. Green, Dons, third. The distance was one mile and 550 yards.

West Sides scored again in the junior fours, noosing out Argos, with Brockville third and Dons fourth. The time was 7:32.

Sneed went to the front early, leaving Green and Flaville to make the race for second. With 200 yards to go, Flaville spurred himself into the second heat.

In a shell brought from Australia, Rutherford obtained his victory over Wright. Stark of Lachine finished third.

Wright, always a quick starter, shot into the lead at the start and a few strokes was a length in front of the American. Swinging into a terrific stride, Rutherford wiped out the margin before the distance was half over, and shoved the nose of his boat in front by the narrowest possible margin.

Stark, Lachine, was third, and Wehrner of Detroit, fourth. Johnny Duran, Toronto, was in last place. J. Ryan, Argos, won the 140-pound junior singles second heat, with E. Rhymor, St. Catharines, and W. Dalton, Hamilton, following in that order.

Leading Canadian Athletes Entrain To-night For Olympics

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Oarsmen Are Best Example of 100 Per Cent Amateurism

B.C. Gains Honor of Sending Fifteen Athletes to Olympiad

John McGraw States He Is Through With Baseball for Good

Johnny Dundee Retains His Love for Ring and Track

FOR 100 PER CENT amateurism, the oarsmen must be the best example of the 100 per cent amateurism. The oarsmen who have trained so long and faithfully for the fun of rowing one or two boats in a competition in hopes of representing their country in the Olympic Games. Rowing is an exciting sport and the Olympic distance of a mile and 550 yards is probably one of the most exhausting distances. But rowing is a true case of sport for sport's sake. Aspirants for a team train weeks and weeks and row miles and miles for the chance to win an opportunity to row another mile and 550 yards in the Olympiad. The work of these lads who make the sacrifice is the embodiment of true amateurism.

The effort of the Vancouver doubles crew, Noel DeMille and Ned Pratt, in winning the Olympic trial at St. Catharines on Tuesday speaks much for the efforts of Bob Johnson, coach of the Vancouver Rowing Club, who has worked diligently in preparing the crew for the programme of competition. Johnson has had DeMille and Pratt under his eye for the last three years or so, and spent hours and hours with the pair, whipping them into shape for the Olympic trials. DeMille and Pratt were two willing pupils. They stuck right to their training programme and their efforts have been rewarded as they will have the honor of representing Canada at Los Angeles next month.

Selection of DeMille and Pratt for Canada's Olympic team brings the total number of British Columbia athletes who will attend the games to a probable fifteen. Such a large representation is a great honor for this province and ably proves the highest calibre of athletic talent developed in British Columbia. The complete list of British Columbia athletes who will attend the games followed by their names: Swimming: George Burrows and Dick Wyndham, Vancouver, and probably Denny Walker, Victoria; diving: Art Scott, Victoria; track and field: Percy Williams, Dunc MacNaughton, Lillian Palmer and Mary Frizell, all of Vancouver; rowing: Noel DeMille and Ned Pratt, Vancouver; cycle racing: Ned Rush, Glen Robins and Frank Elliott, Victoria; and Leo Marchiori, Vancouver.

John McGraw is endeavoring to sell his stock in the New York National League Baseball club and has stated he will not be affiliated with baseball or any baseball club in the future. He resigned recently as manager of the New York Giants and was succeeded by Bill Terry, who is expected to have disastrous results with the team. McGraw may or may not be through with baseball. Boston is hopeful that he and Babe Ruth can be interested in taking over the Red Sox. There is talk of McGraw becoming interested elsewhere. His illness, however, plays a big factor in his future. His illness trouble cannot be corrected he will undoubtedly carry out his plan to stay out of baseball.

Once a world champion featherweight and junior lightweight fighter, and owner of a racing stable, Johnny Dundee, now retired, continues to follow his hobbies despite the fact that he is neither a horse owner nor does he participate in boxing matches as of old. Yet Johnny may be seen almost daily at the racetracks around New York when the racing season is on, and on days when the "greats" of the roped square he is trying to gotham Johnny is sure to be among the spectators. You can't take from him his love for the ring and the track.

Few fighters who have reached the top show the marks of their former profession so distinctly as Dundee. Both of his ears are cauliflowered and his nose flattened. Johnny was a clever boy in his day. He met the stars in four classes and shined as a top-notch for many years. His record shows he has participated in more than 400 fights. Johnny is one of the few former fighters who continues training even in retirement. He is also one who has sailed away enough money for a rainy day.

Canadian Crew Is Handed Bouquets To Open Softball Series To-morrow

New York, July 21.—The record-making performance of the Leader eight-oared crew of Hamilton, Ont., in the Canadian Olympic trials yesterday is hailed by New York newspapers as an achievement which places the Dominion crew in a class all by itself.

The brilliance of the Leaders' feat is revealed by a comparison of its time by 5:49.4-5 which was made by the California crew which recently won the United States Olympic trials. The time made by the Hamilton eight was exactly 16 1/2 seconds better.

One writer remarks: "It looks like Canada has produced a super-crew. If the Leaders keep up their fine work at Los Angeles it will be just too bad for the others. Any crew that can spot our champions 16 1/2 seconds, sure must travel like greased lightning."

Dominion's Best In All Branches Will Head South

"Olympic Special" Will Pull Out From Toronto This Evening Carrying Flower of Canada's Athletes to California; Canadians Will Travel With Olympic Teams of Great Britain, South Africa, Belgium and Hungary; Joe Wright Jr. Refuses to Make Trip Unless Full Expenses Are Paid; Three Additions to Track Team

Toronto, July 21.—Athletes of Canada and Great Britain, sponsors of two of the largest teams entered in the Olympic games at Los Angeles, will set out to-night on a cross-continent trip to California aboard a train loaded with the athletic greats of five nations.

The "Olympic Special" is to pull out of Toronto Union Station at 10:30 o'clock with the Olympic squads of Great Britain, South Africa, Belgium and Hungary as well as part of Canada's team. An hour and a half later it will pick up the Canadian track and field teams, men, women and rowers at Hamilton.

U.S. SHOULD WIN HURDLES

Keller, Saling and Beard Figured to Lift High Jump at Olympic Games

South Africans Who Won in 1928 Missing; Lord Burghley to Defend Honors

Los Angeles, July 21.—The United States not only should regain the Olympic high hurdles championship this year but finish 1-2-3 in the final, unless some mishap along the timbered 110-metre route befalls Jack Keller, George Saling and Percy Beard.

The home forces never have had a faster trio for this spectacular event. All have broken world records and the fastest man in the world, tied the world mark of 14.4 seconds in capturing the final trial at Palo Alto.

Keller may not be the most stylish of hurdlers but coaches agree he is the fastest man in the world between the barriers. There has not been much to choose between Keller and Saling, however, on this season's performances. Beard, 1921 national champion, has "rated" his early pace and is counted on to reach his peak in the Olympics. He won the national high hurdles a year ago in 15.2 seconds.

Not only is the U.S. hurdling delegation stronger than in 1928 but the foreign menace seems weaker. For one the fastest African, who ran the United States flag at the Olympiad, is missing. The principal foreign clearances this time seems due from the German, Western and the Finnish. Able Booth, Yale great, halfback, has passed up the motion pictures for the demonstration football game which will be staged here on the night of August 8 as part of the Olympiad.

The pocket-size ball carrier who flashed across the eastern gridiron for three years made this decision to leave the game. He is now a member of the University of Southern California, where he is a member of the western team from Stanford, California and Southern California.

1,300,000 Tickets Sold For Olympiad

Los Angeles, July 21.—With the opening day at the Olympiad exactly ten days hence, advance ticket sales passed the 1,300,000 single admissions mark yesterday, thereby exceeding all attendance marks of the modern games. Zach Farmer, general manager of the local organizing committee, predicted the Olympiad Stadium, with its capacity of 105,000 seats, would be a sellout for the opening ceremony July 30.

The sales total to date is almost double the entire attendance of the 1928 Games at Amsterdam.

"Babe" Siebert Is Sold to Rangers

Montreal, July 21.—Outright sale of "Babe" Siebert, big left winger, to the Montreal Maroons, was announced by President James P. Brien, of the Montreal Maroons Club of the National Hockey League, yesterday.

The sale price was "a big bundle of cash—too good an offer to turn down," Strachan said. A proposed straight trade of Siebert for Earl Siebert of the Rangers fell through. Rangers offered with Springfield, the New York farm, for $7,000, but it was refused.

Siebert is the second of "Big-S" line to be sold. Nelson Stewart having been sold to the Boston Bruins. Only take on the Vancouver City champions, Gracy Wheeler, Santa Monica, winter team expected shortly to sign two new players, the Bruins, who will play in the "pick of the amateurs" in Canada. Each would play the scales at over 190 pounds, he said. The names were not announced.

Six of the eleven teams from the Service and Commercial Softball Leagues will start their campaign for the Peden Cup in the city division, to-morrow evening.

All games will start at 6:30 o'clock. The Navy will take the field against the Fifth Regiment at the Canteen Grounds with Baylis umpiring. Royal Arcanum will face K. of P. at lower Central, with Williams in charge, and C.P.R. and Canadian Scottish will battle at upper Central with Jones calling them.

Y.M.I. Macabees, St. Paul's, Civic Service and Caledonians have drawn byes, and will not play until next week.

MORROW: HOME RUNS!

Budge Leads Parade Of U.S. Victories In B.C. Tournament

Brilliant California Junior Tennis Player Defeats Dunc Williams, Vancouver Star, 6-2, 6-2, in Clay Court Championships at Vancouver; Prusoff, Murio and Shimura All Advance; Brawn in Easy Win Over Shields; No Upsets Seen in Women's Play

Vancouver, July 21.—Seventeen-year-old, gangling young Don Budge from down Oakland way, led the parade of singles stars into the fourth round of the B.C. clay court tennis championships at Jericho yesterday when he smothered Dunc Williams, one of the foremost Vancouver contenders, 6-2, 6-2. Williams, playing at his best, was no match for the cleverly-manipulated placements of the profusely-freckled California junior.

Henry Prusoff, Seattle, defending titleholder, had little trouble with Doug Cameron, Jericho champion, and crushed him, 6-1, 6-1. John Murio, San Francisco Hawaiian, advanced to the final round at the expense of W. Thayer, Seattle.

About the only result approaching a surprise was the decisive win of Jack Brawn over Gordon Shields, both local players. The scores were 6-1, 6-1. Shields erratic and Brawn playing steadily and carefully. Freddie Shimura, Japanese challenger from San Francisco, was given a scare by "Chuck" Rollins, Jericho, in the second set of their match. After Shimura had taken the first set, 6-1, Rollins came back to lead throughout the second, once by as much as 4-4 and 40-15 on his own service.

Shimura was too steady, however, and finally won the set, 70-8.

MATCH ABANDONED

In an exhibition match between Shimura and George Yosh of the Nippon Club, in which the mythical Japanese championship of the Pacific Coast was to have been staged, play was abandoned at set-all. Yosh won the first set, 6-4, after leading at 4-1, but tired badly in the second and was polished off, 6-1.

Brawn to-day was slated to meet Cyril Robbs, Portland, who defeated Harry Goldman, California, 6-1, 6-2. Budge battles George Sparling, Jericho. Elmer Griffin tackles Murio in the fourth round, while his doubles partner, Kennelly, engages Prusoff.

There was little excitement in the women's singles, although Dorothea Schwartz, San Francisco, was taken to twelve games in the second set by Miss Jean Henderson, Marjorie Greig, Jericho, who won the first set, 6-0, while Genevieve Grant, San Francisco, trounced Elsie Porter, Jericho, 6-1, 6-0.

The men's doubles were featured by the great stand Guy Goetting and Cecil McLean made against Budge and James Kinney, the Vancouverites took the first set, 6-3, and were close to victory in both second and third sets, while the Californians won, 7-5, 6-4.

The winners now meet Murio and Shimura, while Ray Casey and Prusoff take on the Vancouver City champions, Brawn and Shields.

Gracy Wheeler, Santa Monica, winter team expected shortly to sign two new players, the Bruins, who will play in the "pick of the amateurs" in Canada. Each would play the scales at over 190 pounds, he said. The names were not announced.

Cleveland Indians Still Rate Threat In American League

With Fourteen Victories on Present Road Trip Cleveland Can Still Get Into Thick of Battle for Major Baseball Crown; Defeated Boston 8 to 1 Yesterday Yanks and Athletics Both Win; Chuck Klein Features National League With Two Home Runs and Triple on an "Off" Day

It is rather late in the season for Cleveland Indians to star going somewhere in the American League but the results of their recent tour of the eastern sector indicate they still may make some progress.

The Indians, playing the road, with fourteen victories and four defeats, outshone all rivals in both circuits in the interseasonal series which winds up to-day and with a few good breaks at home in the next week or two they stand a good chance of getting into the fight.

The Red men topped off their tour yesterday by trouncing Boston Red Sox 8 to 1.

The two teams still ahead of Cleveland, New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics, did not yield an inch yesterday. The Yanks made it five straight over Chicago White Sox, 7 to 2, and the Athletics pounded out an 8-to-1 victory over St. Louis Browns for their sixth straight victory and the Browns' eleventh defeat.

Washington salvaged a game out of the Detroit series, after losing three straight, with a 4-to-1 triumph.

Chuck Klein was the leading figure in the National League programme, although he complained of a stomach ailment before the Phillies' game at home yesterday. He did not play, but did on an "off" day was to elude home runs twenty-seven to twenty-eight and a triple and lead the way to a 6-to-2 victory.

Boston Braves, who had a day off bracketed with Cincinnati, were the only ones to profit much by Pittsburgh's defeat. The second-place Chicago Cubs took a 9-to-1 beating from New York Giants and remained two games behind and as far ahead of Boston.

Brooklyn Dodgers tried five pitchers and did not find one who could throw past the St. Louis bats with any regularity. The Cards pounded all impartially for twenty-two hits and a 16-to-5 victory.

Pittsburgh, July 21.—Chuck Klein was ill yesterday, but he hammered his way out of a hitting slump with a double, a triple and a home run. The Phillies handed the first-place Pirates another trimming, 6 to 2. Edgar Holley, rookie curver, registered his ninth victory of the season. R. H. E. Philadelphia 6 13 0 Pittsburgh 2 5 1 Batteries—Holley and V. Davis; Maine, Spencer and Grace.

Chicago, July 21.—The veteran Burleigh Grimes, who has played a role as a world series hero to that of a relief pitcher for the Cubs, essayed his first start since July 4 yesterday and led the Cubs to a 9-to-1 victory over the New York Giants in the series final. Grimes yielded half of the runs, but he was helped by the clutching of his teammates. The Cubs won the series with two on base to clinch the victory. R. H. E. New York 9 17 0 Chicago 1 7 1 Batteries—Hubbell and Hogan; O'Farrell, Grimes, May, Smith and Hartnett.

St. Louis, July 21.—The Cardinals cut loose a terrific attack against five Brooklyn pitchers yesterday, while Jim Lindquist turned in a nice job of relief, hurrying to defeat the Dodgers 16 to 5 in the series final. The Cards collected twenty-two hits, bunting eight of them with a pair of Brooklyn errors, and stole two bases. O'Doul and Stripp hit homers for Brooklyn in the third inning. Jake Flowers hit another home and four singles, while Orattelli made four hits and Prich hit three singles and stole two bases. O'Doul and Stripp hit homers for Brooklyn.

STEELE WINS OVER CHINESE

Tacoma Welterweight Puts Ralph Chong Away in Sixth Round; Britt Winner

Seattle, July 21.—Freddie Steele, straight punching Tacoma welterweight, twice battered Ralph Chong, New Orleans Chinese, to the canvas in a six-round boxing battle here yesterday evening to score a technical knockout in the final stanza. Steele scaled 148 and Chong 150 1/2.

Like a snare-drummer beating double time, the clever Tacoma boy pounded a victory tune on Chong's mid-section. From the outset Steele rained rights and lefts into the Oriental's stomach to win every round by a good margin.

Jimmy Britt, Tacoma welterweight, won the decision over Vibenico Alcantara, Manila, in six rounds, taking everything the Filipino had to offer and dealing out a little more.

Paul Delaney, Seattle middleweight, and "Wild Man" O'Connell, Santa Anna, Calif., put on a six-round slugfest battle with Delaney getting the verdict.

NEWARK BEARS END FINE TOUR

Complete Road Trip After Winning Eleven of Sixteen Games in Minor Ball

Newark Bears, back home for a series of interseasonal games, today proudly looked back over their northern road trip—a trip studded with success as evidenced by eleven victories as against only five defeats.

The Bears left home July 5, leading Baltimore Orioles by one and a half games and Buffalo Bisons by two games. They returned with three and a half games separating them from the Bisons and six full games in front of the slipping Orioles.

Completing their swing around the northern half of the circuit yesterday, the Bears defeated Rochester Redwings, 6 to 2.

Reading Keys made three out of four in the series with Montreal by winning the final game, 4 to 3, behind the four-hit pitching of Al Shealy.

Jersey City turned back the lowly Toronto Leafs twice, 5 to 4 and 2 to 1. Baltimore, winner of only seven of its seventeen interseasonal games, lost Buffalo, which won ten and lost seven against the south, postponed their game on account of wet grounds.

TORONTO LEAFS WANT FINNIGAN

Toronto, July 21.—"Irish Frankie" Finnigan, weaving wing man of Ottawa Senators, who last year wore a Toronto Maple Leaf jersey, isn't going to join the ranks of the unemployed if Connie Smythe, manager of the local entry in the National Hockey League, can help it. It became known yesterday that Smythe is seeking the outright purchase of the Shawville defence solver. He has requested officials of the Senators to put a price on Finnigan.

ROSEBUDS WILL BATTLE TAIYOS

Wally Scott and his Rosebuds ball tossers will present a strengthened nine when they stack up against the flashy Taiyos, Japanese squad, at the Royal Athletic Park to-night at 8:15 o'clock in a Twilight Baseball League fixture.

Gordon Jones, first string hurler, will parade to the hillock for the Buds, while M. Ashikawa is expected to get the call for the Nippons.

Outside Markets' Weakness Causes Prices To Recede

Winnipeg, July 21.—Weakness in outside markets more than offset export demand, and prices slipped fractionally in the pit here to-day. Value at the close was 1/4 to 1/2 lower. July eased 1/4 to 54, October 1/4 to 57 1/2, and December 1/4 to 58 1/2.

No estimate of the amount worked for export was available. Opening steady the market held a firm tone with prices little changed at mid-session. Efforts to extend the rally in later trading encountered opposition through lack of support. Broomhall reported new crop wheat in many countries available. Total estimates of fifteen European countries place the yields at 312,855,000 bushels, compared with 1,270,320,000 last year. Weather conditions, however, have not been favorable for growing crops since the estimates were issued.

Demand for cash wheat was draggy, with prices little changed. Interest in the coarse grains section was indifferent.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, July 21.—Wheat: The wheat market continued featureless again to-day with only a small bid-bidness pasting. Offerings were extremely light, and during the first period were fractionally higher when there was some scattered buying against export sales worked. Opening steady, the market held a firm tone with prices little changed at mid-session. Efforts to extend the rally in later trading encountered opposition through lack of support. Broomhall reported new crop wheat in many countries available. Total estimates of fifteen European countries place the yields at 312,855,000 bushels, compared with 1,270,320,000 last year. Weather conditions, however, have not been favorable for growing crops since the estimates were issued.

Demand for cash wheat was draggy, with prices little changed. Interest in the coarse grains section was indifferent.

Argentina estimated shipments are again small at 441,000 bushels, and it is more than probable that world shipments will be small this week, with no passage supplies again showing sharp reduction. The demand for wheat the world over appears to be light at the present time, with some new crops in Europe being available. Country marketings in western Canada have fallen to small figures, being only 98,000 bushels, but supplies are ample, and the new crop will shortly be moving. Winnipeg closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Coarse grains: Features of these markets was the spurt in July oats, with shorts attempting to cover and everything being held tight. There was little export business today, but nothing doing in oats or rye, while the domestic demand in all grains was light. Oats closed 1/4 higher to 1/2 lower, barley 1/4 to 1/2 lower, and wheat 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 lower on Winnipeg.

MANY VISIT HERE TO-DAY

Ss. Lady Alexandra and Ss. Indianapolis Bring Large Excursion Parties to Victoria

Nearly 1,000 people were added to the list of visitors to Victoria to-day when two excursion steamers docked in the inner harbor early this afternoon. One ship was from Seattle and Port Townsend and the other from White Rock summer resort near Vancouver.

The White Rock excursion was taken by the Union steamer Lady Alexandra. She arrived at 12:30 o'clock and went to berth at the Canadian National piers. Many Victorians were on the dock when the ship arrived to greet friends from the mainland. The Lady Alexandra was scheduled to leave on her return trip at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Coming by way of Port Townsend, where she picked up additional excursionists, the Indianapolis did not dock at the Belleville Street docks of the Canadian Pacific until 2 o'clock this afternoon. She left Seattle early this morning and called in at Port Townsend on her way over. She will leave on her return at 6 o'clock, and will also make a stop at Port Townsend to leave some of her passengers aboard. She had about 300 persons aboard.

One at the Butchart Gardens to-day a party of Victorians are enjoying the beauties of the gardens. They made the trip down from the mainland port by the Ss. Princess Patricia, and are spending two hours at Tod Inlet.

Next Thursday the Princess Patricia is posted to take an excursion trip from Victoria to Seattle and return.

district manager for the Luckenbach Lines, had luncheon together aboard the ship. The manager and his wife, day and the mariner seemed to be in perfect health.

When the J. L. Luckenbach was three miles north of Browns Point, bound for Tacoma a few hours later, Mr. Euson received a wireless message stating that Capt. McDonald was desperately ill. He dispatched a speedboat from Tacoma to meet the ship and Capt. McDonald was removed from his vessel in a cargo sling.

The J. L. Luckenbach was back in Seattle yesterday, commanded by her chief officer. She will return to Tacoma this evening, where Capt. L. Olsen, chief officer of the steamship K. I. Luckenbach, now in San Francisco, will take command of the vessel. Capt. Olsen to-day was on his way to the Sound by airplane.

Capt. McDonald leaves his widow, Mrs. Euson, at Tacoma. She is a sister of Capt. J. A. McDonald, master of the steamship Mathew Luckenbach of the Luckenbach Lines, and two brothers and a sister in Los Angeles.

C.N. WORKERS REGRET STEP

Tribute Is Paid Sir Henry Thornton For Way in Which He Dealt With Employees

Montreal, July 21.—The employees of the Canadian National Railways regret Sir Henry Thornton's resignation as president. Robert J. Tallon stated yesterday, speaking in behalf of these employees.

Mr. Tallon is president of the Association of General Chairmen, who are the system's spokesmen for the various brotherhoods and unions maintaining contractual relations with the Canadian National management.

"During Sir Henry's stewardship of the Canadian National Railways," Mr. Tallon said, "co-operation between labor and management for mutual benefit and public services has been developed to a degree unsurpassed elsewhere in the world."

"Sir Henry leaves behind him one of the finest monuments in relations ever erected in large-scale industry. Labor and management have been operating on a basis of mutual respect and understanding."

"The friendly spirit of the Canadian Government in sending the destroyers Skeena and Vancouver to this harbor for a goodwill mission is keenly appreciated by citizens of Port Angeles, who extend the right hand of neighborliness to the seagoing ambassadors, whether they hold their flag at the main truck or swing their hammocks 'tween decks. Port Angeles is still talking about the friendly visit of the British Columbia Premier to assist in officially opening the Olympic highway."

Calawai and City of Los Angeles to End Long Careers on Pacific Ocean

San Diego, July 21.—Capt. George Zeh, skipper of the Los Angeles Steamship Company's liner Calawai, said yesterday that his vessel and the Laseo steamship City of Los Angeles would be brought here this month, decommissioned and offered for sale.

Captain Zeh came here to make arrangements with the harbor department for berthing the two big ships.

The Calawai, 465 feet long and valued at $3,000,000, was brought here to-day from San Pedro, while the City of Los Angeles, 580 feet long and also valued at $3,000,000 will be brought here when she finishes her present voyage to Honolulu. Captain Zeh said.

Both vessels have been operating between Los Angeles and Honolulu, and are being displaced by the Matson Oceanic Line's Monterey and Mariposa, which in addition will extend the route to Australia.

The Calawai is a 13,500-ton ship and served as a transport in the Spanish-American and the World Wars. She made in the Laseo service in 1923. The City of Los Angeles, a 22,500-ton vessel, formerly was a German ship, plying between Europe and South America.

LAURELS FOR THE LARGEST SHIP EVER TO ENTER A DRYDOCK IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA, will be given to-morrow morning to the Empress of Japan when she is floated into the Dominion Government drydock at Esquimalt. The drydock at St. John is just as large as the local one but as far as is known here no ship as large as the Empress of Japan has ever been floated into it.

The Japan will leave Vancouver this evening and will make a leisurely passage to Esquimalt. She will be floated into the big basin at 7 o'clock and immediately will start on her annual summer overhaul. About 150 men will be employed on the job and the ship will be given a fresh water bath, and her underwater portions will be cleaned, scraped and painted. She will return to Vancouver Saturday afternoon.

NEWFOUNDLAND WANTS CANADA'S SHIP LAWS

St. John's, Nfld., July 21.—Newfoundland's coastal trade is under review by the Dominion Board of Trade, and at a recent meeting it was intimated that adoption of Canadian regulations is favored as a means of meeting competition from foreign vessels. Much of the coastal trade is carried in foreign bottoms, and the customs department will be asked to invoke new restrictions. Following is an excerpt from The Daily News report:

"Complying with the recent request of the council the traffic committee has considered the matter of foreign steamers freight and trading on the Newfoundland coast. At the present time foreign steamers are permitted to land cargo at various ports and also to take freight from port to port without any restriction. The committee in considering this matter, was of the opinion that Canadian regulations, if put into effect here, would cover what is required. Foreign steamers must be permitted to discharge cargo at two or more ports and to load cargo for foreign ports, but this should come under the customs regulations outlined in section 5 of the Canadian regulations. Members of the trade have on various occasions asked that the board of trade endeavor to do something to remove the unfair

MALNUTRITION CAUSED DEATH

Mothers of Dead Doukhobor Infants Went on Hunger Strike

Vancouver, July 21.—The death of two Doukhobor infants here recently followed malnutrition attributed to their mothers going on a hunger strike, it was officially revealed yesterday.

The infants, aged two and three months, were being nursed by their mothers in Oakalla jail. The mothers joined a hunger strike which lasted for several days. The children failed and were sent to the infants' hospital, where they received every care. Before their deaths their mothers were brought from Oakalla to hold them in their arms.

Nelson to-day more than one hundred women entered the fifth day of their hunger strike in protest against the deaths. One woman with an infant joined the strike at first, but when threatened with separation from the child readily took food.

The striking women are resting on bedding or sitting about the tents and buildings of the jail yard. The faces of some of the women are becoming drawn and their usual healthy color is lacking.

While the deaths of the babies is stated to be the cause of the strike, it is also believed that the women have been influenced by agitators. It is not known how the news of the deaths got into the jail.

Once before the Nelson women inmates went on a four-day strike. No cause was given at that time except something vague about an urge from the infinite.

It is said that a couple of girls among the present strikers are taking food surreptitiously.

MAKE APPEAL FOR WORKSHOP

Jobs Must Be Given Disabled Veterans Who Depend on Red Cross Institution

An urgent appeal to the citizens of Victoria to give every possible job to the Red Cross Workshop is made by the shop committee, consisting of Mrs. Harold Fleming, P. W. Jones, W. L. Morrell, G. H. Lawson and the Bishop of Columbia. The shop, situated at 684 Johnson Street, is operated for the sole purpose of providing employment to disabled ex-servicemen unable to earn their living in the ordinary labor market.

Most of the thirty-eight men on the shop's roll have had to be laid off recently because of lack of work and it is because of this situation that a special appeal is being issued by the committee. The Victoria shop is the only Red Cross institution of its kind remaining in Canada, all the others having been discontinued or been taken over as Veterans shops. If Victoria is to maintain its enviable reputation, orders must be given for work.

Cabinetmaking and general wood-working, furniture repairing, picture framing, painting and polishing, basketmaking, grass and wicker chair repairing, chair recaning, tin-smithing, wirework and art metal work are among the activities of the shop. Men are also sent out to do any light carpenter work such as sidewalks, fences, partitions, steps, shelving, window screens, etc. Estimates are gladly given on any work without charge or obligation.

Kitchen tables, ironing boards, step-ladders, clothes dryers, garden seats and tables, garbage cans, all-metal and plastic trays, baskets and many other articles are kept constantly in stock.

A job is given to the Red Cross Workshop customer, who only assists in the employment of disabled soldiers but also receives full value for his money. The manager is Major S. H. O'Neil; general foreman, J. W. Cashmore; basket shop foreman, J. G. Morrell; and iron and tin shop foreman, W. Bardeley.

NO ELECTION NOW SAYS ANDERSON

Improved Crop Conditions in Saskatchewan Remove Contingency

Prairie Area Now Presents "One Wide Green Field"

Ottawa, Ont., July 21.—"My government has no intention of going to the country this year nor in 1933," said Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan to the Canadian Press to-day. "Highly-improved crop conditions have removed virtually the only contingency which could have justified an election with all its disturbing turmoil prior to the expiration of our five-year term of office in 1934."

"Last session I said there would be no election in 1933 unless we were confronted with a serious situation in mind the possibility of a fourth successive crop failure, making demands on the government for measures so drastic an appeal to the country in endorsement would have been inevitable. That peril has disappeared before the prospect of at least a good average crop and the last thing wanted by our busy farmers is an election."

Dr. Anderson spoke of the vast improvement in the condition of the farmers in what were known as the drought-stricken areas, because they now have secure plenty of food, feed and seed. This, he said, quite apart from the cash they will get from their crop, was a highly important factor as would be realized from the relief figures covering the period from last fall to the end of June. Seed, feed and fodder in that time had cost the Saskatchewan government four times the amount expended on food and clothing for the distressed rural communities.

Picturing the distress in areas where not a blade grew in three years, Premier Anderson said the fodder alone hauled into these areas since last fall equalled the load of a freight train 210 miles long. "Now," he said, "the prairie is one wide green field."

DUNCAN HOSPITAL REDUCES COSTS

Special to The Times
Duncan, July 21.—The monthly meeting of the directors of the Cowichan District Hospital Association was held at the hospital on Monday, those present being: E. W. Neel, chairman; K. F. Duncan, vice-chairman; L. F. Solly, R. A. Thorpe, Y. Birley, H. F. Prevost, H. Graham, Mrs. J. Gibb, Miss Wilson, Miss Baran and N. R. Craig.

Mr. Duncan, as chairman of the finance committee, reported that in the half year ending June 30, 458 patients were admitted, as against 391 for the same period last year. Days treatment totalled 8,114, as against 6,694. Patients fees collected in the half year increased from $7,902.22 in 1932 to a slight increase, but the extra number of patients treated reduced the per capita cost from $3.35 in 1932 to $2.71 in 1933.

The drive for membership in the association was progressing, but on account of general conditions results were not as good as last year. From funds collected last year and collections made this year, which are earmarked for repayment of the mortgage, the association had been able to pay off $1,000. It is hoped with the continued support of the public to be able to pay off a similar amount next year.

The month of June showed a slight increase over May. The total days treatment amounting to 1,272; major operations, 6; minor operations, 27; out-patients, 19; X-ray, 48; births, 8; deaths, 1. Cash receipts, $5,241.40 and expenditures, $5,462.20.

Subjects of Famous Literary Gems Meet

"Alice in Wonderland" and "Peter Pan" Originals Features of London Gathering

London, July 21.—"Alice in Wonderland" and "Peter Pan" met recently at a literary gathering in London, they being the central figures thereat. "Alice" is Mrs. Hargreaves, the original of Lewis Carroll's immortal story, and "Peter" is Peter Davies, publisher, the original of Sir James Barrie's famous play, "Peter Pan." The occasion of the meeting was the opening by Mrs. Hargreaves of the Lewis Carroll Centenary Exhibition, arranged in a bookshop in Oxford Street, and during the ceremony "Peter" sat at "Alice's" left.

Mrs. Hargreaves, a dainty little figure in brown, with smiling eyes peeping from beneath a shady hat, sat with one hand resting on a thick stick. The gathering was representative of literature, the church, the stage, art, politics, the universities and sport. Around to room were dozens of relics of Lewis Carroll—Charles Lutwidge Dodgson—the great literary playmate of Mrs. Hargreaves's childhood. Ranged on shelves were books on logic and trigonometry by the learned Mr. Dodgson and on the other side were flip-pant sketches and satires from the pen of the puckish creator of "Alice." There are dozens of editions of "Alice in Wonderland," including the rare first edition, which was called in after about twenty copies had been issued.

A special matinee was given at the St. James's Theatre in aid of the Lewis Carroll Memorial, which is to take the form of a "Lewis Carroll" ward for children in St. Mary's Hospital. The ward is to be named "Wonderland Ward."

Madame Alanova, Sir Gerald du Maurier, Seymour Hicks, Miss Violet Loraine, Miss Alicia Markova, and Miss Peggy Wood appeared at the matinee, and Mrs. Hargreaves auctioned a first edition of "Alice in Wonderland."

S.P.C.A. Asks Boys to Refrain From Killing Them; Valuable to Gardens

Stuart Bruce, who has recently arrived in Victoria from Bonne Terre, Missouri, where he assisted in organizing a Humane Society, gave an interesting address before the committee of the Victoria branch of the S.P.C.A. on his way to Victoria. Mr. Bruce traveled through parts of the United States and Canada, visiting branches of the S.P.C.A. in Pennsylvania and New York States and in Ontario. He was much struck with the educational work done in the schools.

During the past month thirty-eight cases have been attended and 655 animals and birds inspected. A member mentioned that he had seen boys torturing snakes; the instinctive desire to destroy these reptiles probably prompts these acts of cruelty; the snakes of Vancouver Island are harmless and a very considerable amount of pest and are, on the whole, beneficial to destroy earwigs; the poison, though fatal to insects, has no ill effects on animals.

Cases of cruelty or neglect should be reported to the inspector, G. A. Al Empire 8881, or to A. R. Sherwin, secretary-treasurer, Empire 7866.
